WEATHER.

The local forecast for to-day and to-morrow is slightly warmer, fair weather.

Weather Conditions.

Generally fair weather prevails throughout the country, with higher but seasonable temperature, excepting in the extreme southern states, where the cold wave is still felt. New Orleans reported a temperature of 24 this morning. The "low" over Lake Superior yesterday has moved eastward to the St. Lawrence valley, causing snow and warmer weather in that section.

A second "low" in now on our northern border and will probably move southward bringing warmer weather about Saturday, with rain or snow. Its average temperature is 28 degrees above. The lowest temperature in the United States this morning was 6 above in Minnesota; the highest was 42 above at Jacksonville, Fla. The only zero on the government weather map is at Quebec.

The lowest temperature in Toledo this morning was 11 degrees above, a rise of 16 degrees over yesterday morning's; the warmest yesterday was 16 degrees above.

Washington, Jan. 21.—Forecast for Ohio, Indiana, Illinois:—Generally fair, preceded by snow flurries on the lakes; warmer; south winds.

For Michigan and Wisconsin:—Generally fair, with occasional snow flurries on the lakes; slightly warmer; variable winds.

CHILE IN NO HURRY

Uncle Sam Must Wait on Her Motion.

Minister Montt Talks on the Situation.

A Peaceful Tune to His Conversation,

But War Preparations Going on Just the Same.

Judge Advocate Remey's Investigation Shows That the American Sailors Were Brutally Attacked and Shamefully Treated After They Had Fallen.

New York, Jan. 21.—The Herald this morning prints an interview with Chilean Minister Montt in which he expresses the views of his government in the controversy now pending between Chile and the United States, which threatens to involve the United States in a war.

The Herald on last Tuesday sent a cable dispatch to President Jorge Montt, of Chile, asking him if he would kindly give it an official statement as to Chile's position in the present difficulty between that country and the United States, and as to Chile's intention in regard to our demand for an apology, reparation and indemnity for the Baltimore affair.

A reply was received from President Montt yesterday, as follows:

"Minister Montt can express to you fully the views of my government. With much respect, JORGE MONTT.

As soon as this dispatch arrived the Herald's correspondent in Washington was instructed to convey this message to Minister Montt.

The minister when shown the dispatch, hesitated for a time, but finally began by saying:

"Chile has only the the warmest feeling toward the United States. The American people do not understand Chile. Why should she not have good feelings?"

The correspondent hazarded the Baltimore incident as a reason to the contrary.

In reply Minister Montt said:

"I say to you that Chile has done and is doing all she possibly can to investigate this trouble and to obtain the facts whereupon to punish the guilty. Before she obtains these facts it is impossible for her to make any reply to the demands of this government.

"She has conducted the matter just the same as the United States or any other country would have conducted it if it had happened in their borders. There has been no delay nor has there been undue haste. The investigation has been thorough and when it is finished the facts will be known.

"The matter is now in the hands of Judge Foster. He may not write his decision until February 1. This decision in our procedure is an acquittal or conviction carrying with it the sentence. Before, however, the sentence can be carried out, the decision must be reviewed by the upper or superior court."

The correspondent tried very hard to obtain from the minister what, in his opinion, would be the length of time before a review of the lower court decision could be expected. He said that it might take six weeks or two months but said that the government would not delay it.

"When," continued the minister, "the superior court has reviewed the decision the facts brought out will form the basis on which our minister of foreign affairs will make reply to the government of the United States."

Minister Montt said he did not see how any possible fault could be found with Chile.

The correspondent said the one great fault that the American people found was that Chile had not expressed the slightest regret for the killing of the American sailors and asked if that was true.

The black eyes of the minister lighted up with scorn. He was on the point of making an impetuous declaration of denial when he checked himself and replied in his most diplomatic tone:

"It is not for me to make public the official correspondence of this country. You can see that at the state department."

Minister Montt was then asked if it was true that the president of Chile and the leading statesmen of that country were disposed to be friendly toward the United State but were afraid to deal out justice through fear of the rabble.

"Bosh, I do not believe it," exclaimed the minister. "When the facts are properly ascertained our officers of state will do strict and absolute justice in accordance therewith. It does not make any difference what the state of feeling in the country may be."

The minister then went on to emphatically impress upon the correspondent that there was no desire in Chile for war with the United States, and that the people had not the slightest idea that the United States was thinking of such a thing.

"Why," said he, "I have this day received the Chilean newspapers of December 7. Compare the American newspapers of that date with them. In the American papers it is all war, war, war. In the Chilean papers there it not one word of war. They treat of everything that is interesting to the people, but you will not find in any of them a word of hostility or the slightest expression of ill-feeling toward the United States."

OUR NAVY.

The Wisdom of the Democratic Administration Endorsed.

New York, Jan. 21.—The naval force that can be immediately brought to bear on our side against Chile comprises, to begin with, a dozen modern steel unarmored vessels of the protected cruiser type, mounting more than 100 high-power breech-loading rifles of the six-inch and ten-inch caliber. In fact, our only steel cruiser which has not been made available for this purpose is the smallest of them, the Petrel, which, with her four guns, has been sent off to China.

Beginning first with the vessels now in the Pacific ready to be concentrated along the Chilean coast, we have:

The Baltimore of 4,400 tons, carrying four 8-inch and six 6-inch guns.

The Charleston of 3,730 tons, carrying two 8-inch and six 6-inch guns.

The San Francisco of 4,083 tons, carrying twelve 6-inch guns.

The Boston of 3,100 tons, carrying two 8-inch and six 6-inch guns.

The Yorktown of 1,703 tons, carrying six 6-inch guns.

All these vessels are well supplied with rapid fire and machine guns in their secondary batteries, and all have good speed, the Charleston being classed as an 18-knot ship and the San Francisco and Baltimore as 19-knot ships.

Turning from these vessels on the Pacific station to Admiral Walker's squadron now at Montevideo, ready to proceed to Chile through the Straits of Magellan, we find it includes the flag ships Chicago, 4,500 tons, with her splendid battery power of four 8-inch and eight 6-inch guns; the Atlanta, of 3,000 tons with two 8-inch guns and six 6-inch guns.

All these are modern steel vessels, and we need not reckon the wooden craft on that station—the Essex, 1,375 tons, and the Yantic, 900 tons.

The third squadron is that of Rear Admiral Bancroft Gherardi, which is now stationed at the West Indies, ready also to be sent forward if needed. It includes the Philadelphia, 4,324 tons, 19-knots speed and twelve 6-inch rifles, now fitting out at Norfolk to join the squadron, and the Concord, 1,703 tons, with six 6-inch guns. To this squadron also belongs the famous old wooden ship Kearsarge, which sent the Alabama to the bottom.

Besides these vessels we have on the Pacific coast the important barbette turret coast defender Monterey, of 4,048 tons. She is the craft largely relied upon to tackle the Prat. She has less speed than the latter, being designed only for 16 knots; but she carries a tremendous battery of two 12-inch and two 10-inch guns. The former propel an 850-pound projectile with a charge of 435 pounds of powder. They are carried in the forward turret, which is protected by steel plates 14 inches thick, while the 10-inch guns will be in the after turret, protected by 11 1-2 in plates. The hull armor of this vessel is 16 inches at the maximum, a long-distance amidship, covering the engines and magazines. Forward and aft the thickness is increased. It also tapers amidships 16 inches at the top down to six inches. This vessel can be made ready, it has been reported, within two months, and in fact she expects to be ready in ample season to meet the Pratt, should hostilities come.

On the Atlantic coast we have the Miantonomah, of 3,990 tons, carrying in her turrets four 10-inch breech-loading rifles. She has a less effective armor protection than the Pratt, her maximum plating, which is on the turrets, being 11 1-2 inches. But something of an offset is furnished by her low free board. She is, first of all, intended for harbor defense, but if the Pratt proceeds from France to Chile may be following in that direction.

In her harbor defense work she is to be aided by the single turret monitors. Some of these are already getting ready for service, and it is probable that at least half a dozen of them, and perhaps more, will be fitted up. Supplied with some of the surplus 8-inch and 6-inch guns they can be of excellent service as harbor defenders, being able with their light draught to go into waters where a heavy iron vessel cannot follow them.

We should also by no means give the Chileans a monopoly of torpedo work, since the Vesuvius, the Cushing and the Alarm are being fitted up for that purpose and the supply of Howell and Whitehead torpedoes hurried forward.

Of our wooden vessels the Ira, Iroquois, Mohican and others could aid if necessary, and the steel Dolphin would take part as a dispatch vessel. Merchant vessels would also be fitted out both as transports and as armed cruisers.

The upshot of the whole matter is that our navy would be abundantly able to take care of the Chileans, even with the services of the Pratt conceded to them. Should a happy and peaceful settlement end the present trouble, as all must sincerely hope, our navy will nevertheless have had a most valuable experience in the art of getting ready in a hurry for possible hostilities.

JUDGE ADVOCATE REMEY.

His Report Corroborates the Statements of Brutality.

Washington, Jan. 21.—A complete report of the testimony taken by Judge Advocate Remey into the attack on the Baltimore sailors at Valparaiso, which was taken at Vallejo, Cal., has been received at the navy department.

A copy is now in the possession of the president and will be transmitted to congress with the Chilean correspondence. Some fifty of the sailors attacked by the mob were examined and in their testimony they agreed that the attacks were made in different part of the town. They were treated with great brutality by the Chilean citizens and even the police, of whom they sought protection, in several cases assaulted them.

Several of the sailors, Johnson, Langen and Larsen, testified that Chilean soldiers fired the shots which killed Boatswain's Mate Riggin. The testimony showed that many of the sailors were warned by friendly Chileans that an attack upon them was premeditated and these warnings later proved true.

Dr. F. R. Still, assistant surgeon of the United States navy, serving on the Baltimore, gives important testimony. He says the morning after the assault he went to the St. Juan hospital and examined the wounded sailors and also the body of Riggin, which was also at that place.

A ball had passed through Riggin's neck, injuring his brain. From the direction taken by the ball and the character of tissues passed through and the size and character of the wound, he judged the bullet to have been fired from a rifle. Several bruises and stab wounds were also found. The bullet wound was necessarily immediately fatal.

Dr. Still says he made the test by firing a rifle and a pistol bullet through pieces of cloth placed against pieces of meat. The rifle bullet hole corresponded exactly to the hole in the shirt of the sailor Johnson, through which the bullet that killed Riggin passed before striking him. The pistol bullet made a hole very much smaller. Dr. White, of the Baltimore, Dr. Still says, agreed with him as to Riggin's death being caused by a rifle ball.

Dr. Still also testified in regard to a great piece of heartlessness in the case of sailor Turnbull, who was stabbed 21 times. Dr. Still examined him the day after the stabbing and found that none of the wounds were serious if promptly attended to.

He asked two sisters in charge to be allowed to dress Turnbull's wounds, but they refused on the ground that they could not touch any wounds or allow Dr. Still to do so without permission of a physician in charge.

The next day the doctor called again and found Turnbull's condition critical. He urged more strenuously to be permitted to attend the Baltimore men, but his request was again refused.

He says that nothing had been done for the men except the putting of a little ointment on their wounds. The condition of the men was becoming worse and Turnbull especially was failing fast.

He and Dr. White applied to Judge of Crimes Foster for permission to remove the men to the Baltimore for treatment, but their request was not granted until two days later.

At the end of that time all the wounded were removed to the cruiser, but despite the efforts of the physicians, Turnbull died two days later of blood poisoning, resulting from the imperfection of his treatment at the hospital. Dr. Still says positively that there was no other reason why Turnbull could not have recovered.

PUSHING THE WORK.

Five Cruisers Can Be Sent from San Francisco in Three Weeks.

Vallejo, Cal., Jan. 21.—Work at Mare island is on the rush and the latest information obtainable is that it is the desire of the navy department to ascertain how quickly the Ranger and Adams can be made ready for service.

There are many things that go to show that the government is keeping step with the situation as regards war. The stone dock has been made ready for the reception of the Charleston as soon as she arrives. The day and night force are still continued in the steam engineering department and the same state of affairs will last some days.

An extra large force of men has been put to work in the steam engineering department to-day. It is the largest force ever employed there. The rush on the Baltimore work is the cause, and the force will be kept on, pending the arrival of the Charleston.

The information that the Ranger and Adams are needed has some significance. Not that either vessel could do effective war service, but their presence will materially assist a squadron of fighting vessels. Work on the monitor Comanche still continues.

A direct telegraph line now runs from the island to the Western Union office in San Francisco. This means that business formerly transacted by the Vallejo office will not go direct.

The Mohican is ready to go to sea when wanted. The Adams can be made ready in three weeks. Men are now on board doing rapid work. The Ranger can be despatched in one week. The fleet of vessels that can be sent from the yard inside of three weeks, if occasion requires, comprises the Mohican, Adams, Ranger, Baltimore and Comanche. The Charleston can be made ready in much less time after her hull is cleaned.

There is little war talk at the yard, and not much credit is given to various rumors, but work is progressing in a manner that is surprising. The orders concerning repairs to the Nipsic are considered surprising in view of the fact that she was to have done duty at the new navy yard at Port Orchard. The general belief is that the government intends that there shall be no delay to any vessel at the yard, and from night until morning work is progressing vigorously.

San Diego, Jan. 21.—The Charleston sailed at noon to-day for San Francisco, where she will go on the dry dock and obtain more ammunition.

WOULD HURT THE COAST.

California Would Suffer in the Event of War.

New York, Jan. 21.—Gen. O. O. Howard, major general of the army, was seen at Governor's Island to-day. When asked what the prospects were for a war with Chile he thought a moment and then replied:

"I do not believe that a war with Chile is at all probable. But still it is within the range of possibility. A war with England, or Russia, or Spain, or Italy, or some of the ambitious little governments in the southern part of North America is not likely to occur, but, nevertheless, it is possible."

Gen. Howard said that the insurgents of Chile had been very much exercised over the Itata incident and by our slow recognition of what appeared to them to be their rights. The state department is laboring with wisdom and forbearance, he said, to settle amicably all differences between this country and Chile, and he thought the department's work would be successful. But there was only one ultimate appeal for the final disposition of a dispute like this if all attempts at arbitration should fail.

"If Chile should hold out against every reasonable argument," he continued, "and declare that she had been improperly treated, if she should perpetrate such acts against us as other nations have perpetrated at the beginning of war, then war would be declared and entered upon."

Gen. Howard believes that the first thing Chile would do would be to ally herself with some powerful nation.

"Now, to meet aggression from abroad," Gen. Howard said "a country situated on the sea should have three lines of defense. First, the navy itself; second, forts, torpedoes and harbor defense vessels, and third, the army proper. In our case we are partially supplied with a navy, we have some good guns of old pattern mounted at principal harbors, and a number of submarine mines that could be utilized to shut out an enemy. Then we have all the tugs, yachts and harbor boats, which, fitted up with a long spar in front and some dynamite, could be used to protect the entrance to the harbor.

"With these means we might be able to keep an enemy out of our Pacific coast harbors. But assuming there should not be enough should an army attack fail, and further that one harbor—San Diego, for instance—should come into possession of the enemy, then a field army would have to be equipped and organized in order to regain that harbor. The ultimate direction in which a hostile force would act from San Diego would be up the coast toward San Francisco, probably attacking San Francisco at the same time from the sea. In such a contingency the United States would concentrate troops as rapidly a possible as near the front of the enemy's action as would be safe, and make a rapid movement toward Los Angeles. Probably, however, that place would fall into the hands of the enemy before we could gather there a sufficient number of troops to act against an invading army. Then we might concentrate on the line of the Southern Pacific, south of San Francisco, and in the Sacramento valley.

"We have available probably not more than 10,000 troops of our present regular army for such a campaign. The re-

THE LEGISLATIVE GRIND.

Not Much Doing in Columbus To-Day.

Bills Introduced in Both Houses.

The Grand Jury Fails to Find Any Indictments As the Outcome of the Senatorial Election.

Columbus, Jan. 21.—(Special)—While the republicans have a two-thirds membership in both houses, except at the present time, the house membership being one short on account of the death of Representative Camp, of Medina, it can be said that there is considerable trouble ahead for the fellows who want to revolutionize every department of the state government.

In conversation with a number of senators this morning the Bee is able to state that the resolution of Senator Nichols to investigate the subject of redistricting the judiciary will surely be adopted, and if the majority of the committee should report a bill and recommend its passage there will be music in the air before the same can pass the senate, as two republican senators say that they will not vote for such a measure, as the districts are well enough constructed at the present time, besides it will not pay the party to pass any such laws.

Township Trustees Must Report.

Holcomb, of Scioto, came to the front yesterday afternoon with a bill that will give the township trustees a little more work. Heretofore in giving their report to the public nothing was ever said about the amount of money annually expended for common school purposes. If his bill becomes a law they will have to include all school moneys in the list of receipts and expenditures, and same must be conspicuously posted in the township.

Petitions in Error.

The statutes in so far as it relates to the filing of petitions in error does not reach all classes of persons with equal justice. At present married women are not reached, as well as infants and those that are undergoing a sentence of imprisonment, all others must file their petitions within six months. This will have to be done by married women in the future if the bill introduced by Mr. McGrew yesterday afternoon becomes a law.

Loyal Legion Badge.

There is a law on the statutes that prohibits any person from wearing a badge of any secret organization unless a member of the same.

Among the rest especially mentioned is the G. A. R., Union Veteran legion, and Sons of Veterans. In order that all persons who were engaged in the late war may be protected, the statutes will be amended so as to include the Loyal Legion badge.

Do Not Kill Quail.

Mr. Fisher, of Preble, has introduced a bill making it illegal for any person to kill quail before November 10, 1897. Many friends of this gamy little bird in the house of representatives say that they should be protected from the wholesale slaughter that is made every year by the army of hunters.

House committee on municipal corporations heard arguments on the Columbus ripper bill introduced by Daugherty, of Fayette. The politicians wanting the bill passed were represented by Judge Nash and ex-Prosecutor Huling, while a large number of the members of the board of trade want a federal plan bill. Committee adjourned with out taking any action.

The grand jury failed to find any indictments after a long investigation of the senatorial election.

Senatorial Elections.

The house this morning took up the Paxton resolution requesting senators and congressmen in Washington from Ohio to vote for the bill providing for election of United States senators by popular vote.

After refusing to refer it to the committee on federal relations it was adopted—yeas 73, nays 8. Brittain, Davis, Dicks, Haskell, Heacomb, Martin, Wood, Widman, six Sherman men, and Dicks, who voted for Foster, and Widman, who voted for Foraker, with the Lucas county members voted for it.

Pardon Granted.

Governor McKinley pardoned Theodore Wells this morning. He was township treasurer in Guernsey county, and was sent up for one year for embezzlement.

Sherman's Power.

Through instructions from Gov. McKinley, Gen. Pocock announced this morning that he had appointed H. C. McCoy, of Fayette county, guard at the state arsenel.

Orange Sells, of this city, was given the superintendency of the state house and grounds at the request of Sherman's friends in this city, although all republican politicians backed a man named Tyler.

The air in the rotunda was warm with profanity for over an hour after it became known that Sells had captured the plum.

Will Go Back.

J. Van Hook, route agent of the U. S. Express company, at Meridian, Miss., secured a requisition from Gov. McKinley for the arrest of R. E. Chiddy, who is at Springfield, and is wanted for an alleged embezzlement from that company. He left Springfield this noon to make the arrest.

Bills Passed.

Bills passed the house: Mr. Wagner—Providing for posting detailed statements of school funds by township trustees ten days before and on election day.

Mr. Hughes—Prohibiting catching of suckers and mulleteads with nets and seines in rivers and their tributaries in the state.

Mr. Molte—Authorizing the commissioners of Erie county to issue $35,000 in bonds to meet deficiencies in the general fund caused by the building of roads to the Soldiers' home.

The house passed partial appropriation bills aggregating nearly $1,000,000.

Against Money Sharks.

A bill is being prepared for early introduction which is designed to protect unfortunates and friendless poor who are compelled to resort to pawnbrokers to obtain advances.

These sharks now charge an interest of 120 per cent., 10 per cent. a month.

If single payment of interest for one month should pass, the goods are forfeited.

This bill will provide for 8 per cent. per annum and under no circumstances must it exceed 2 per cent. per month.

A heavy penalty is provided for a violation of the law.

Mr. VanCleaf offered a resolution asking how long a time will be required for the completion of the roster and if some of the clerical force could be dismissed.

Bills Introduced in the Senate.

Mr. McMackin—Requiring boards of election to be in session on the day before election to give voters who have been absent an opportunity to register, and to strike from the registration lists all names of persons who did not vote at last previous election.

Mr. Green—To prohibit a majority of stockholders in joint stock companies from disposing of their stock without giving stockholders two weeks notice, and making any sale in violation of this provision void.

Mr. Marshal—Providing that corporations chartered prior to the present constitution may comply with all its requirements without forfeiting their previous rights.

General Mention.

Mr. James, of Wood county, introduced a bill yesterday afternoon authorizing the village of Weston of said county to issue $10,000 in bonds for water works purposes.

Representative Griffin introduced a resolution yesterday afternoon providing for better heating and ventilating of the state house and a committee will be appointed to examine into and report what improvements are needed.

If Senator Stewart's bill should become a law the dogs will have protection, as it provides that owners may collect the assessed value of the dog from the parties stealing the same, besides a penalty is attached for the theft.

Persons selling goods on the installment plan will hereafter have trouble to remove their goods in replevin proceedings unless they give parties who purchased same two days to pay for same. This position is taken in a bill introduced by Senator Von Seggern and it prohibits constables and sheriffs from removing their goods unless two days notice has been given.

WAS DEAD AT HIS POST,

Startling Statement From a Railroad Man.

The Engineer in the Cab Was a Corpse When He Ran the "Cannonball" Past the Switch.

St. Louis, Jan. 21.—Considerable comment has been caused in railroad circles over the statement made by Fireman Ed Warboy, who was on the ill-fated westbound Wabash "Cannonball" express that dashed into the eastbound express at Aladdin, near East Hamilton, about a week ago.

Engineer Burchard was killed, and all the railroad men wondered how as careful a man as he could have run by the switch in the fog as he did.

Warboy, who is recovering from his hurts in the wreck, says that Burchard was undoubtedly dead in his cab before he reached the switch, having died of heart disease soon after leaving Hull.

This Warboy now believes, as Burchard did not take his head from the cab window once after leaving Hull station. Railroad men generally credit the story.

Bad Smash-Up on a Western Railroad.

De Soto, Mo., Jan. 21.—The northbound through express due in St. Louis at 7 o'clock, was wrecked one mile south of here at 7:30 this morning by a broken rail. The sleeping car was thrown from the track and partly tipped on its side. Sleeping Car Conductor Letherbury was bruised about the hips and breast.

Pullman Porter Colvin had his shoulder bruised and received other slight injuries.

F. R. Nichols, of Greeley, Col., was slightly injured about the face and hands.

W. McGregor, of Flint, Mich., was severely cut about the head and face and was bruised about the head and shoulders. He was taken from the train and left under the care of physicians at De Soto.

Trainmaster T. H. Hayden, of the Iron Mountain road, was slightly injured. The injured passengers were transferred to another train and forwarded to St. Louis. The wreck was cleared inside of two hours.

STRUCK A BROKEN RAIL.

A Fast Train Piled Up and Nobody Injured.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 21.—The Sioux City train on the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha road was wrecked by a broken rail at Hamilton early this morning, 20 miles before reaching St. Paul.

Four sleepers were ditched and piled up in wild shape. By a miracle no one was killed. The loss to the company will be $20,000. The sleepers were from Kansas City, Omaha, Sioux City and Tracy.

INJURED BY FALLING WALLS.

New York, Jan. 21.—The walls of the retort house of the Consolidated Gas company at Forty-fifth street and Eleventh avenue, fell at 10:30 this morning, severely injuring several of the employes.

The men were taken to the hospital, where it is said two or three were in a critical condition.

RETURNED TO WORK.

Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 21.—The iron founders of the Baldwin iron works and Fleck's foundry, who went out on strike about three weeks ago for shorter hours, have returned to work at the old hours.

The machinists are still out, but their places are now being rapidly filled with men from other cities.

TEN YEARS AT SING SING.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Jan. 21.—Herbert Searvant, the nurse who shot the wife of the insane actor Hawley Chapman, and was convicted of assault in the first degree, was sentenced to-day to 10 years' imprisonment at Sing Sing. This is the maximum penalty for the crime.

GIBSON WILL SUCCEED HIMSELF.

A MODEL BALL LEAGUE.

The New Western Has Been Launched.

The Circuit Made Up With One Exception and That Will Be Easily Filled.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—There was orgainzed in this city to-day a base ball league that is a model. It is the new western association consisting of Minneapolis, St. Paul Omaha and Kansas City in the west, and Milwaukee, Columbus and Indianapolis in the east. In the constitution submitted by the committee to the delegates at the Auditorium hotel were these provisions:

Every club shall carry 12 players. No club can sign any player whatever, but all players must be signed by the secretary of the league. A list of eight teams of a dozen players each will be submitted to the league in session by the committee and these will be discussed and altered to suit the will of the majority.

It being the object of every manager that the teams are all of equal strength there will be no haggling after stars. Each club is limited to $12,000 a season for salaries. The plan contemplates an equal division of the gate receipts so that in the new league those terrors to base ball, weak cities and tail enders, shall be absent. The delegates went into session at 1 o'clock.

CHILE IN NO HURRY

mainder of the troops would be needed where they are now stationed to guard the people from local troubles or foreign attacks. Consequently the states would be called upon to furnish men to meet the foe. A few states would send us well-drilled militia, but they would be unaccustomed to field service and campaigning. Nearly all of the states, however, could furnish us nothing better than raw recruits. As a result we would suffer the greatest loss of life at first. Our plan would be to confine the enemy within as close limits as possible until by equipping and drilling our green forces we should be strong enough to make an aggressive fight.

"While we might be defeated in one or more engagements, eventually we would certainly drive any hostile force that could probably be landed on our shores. The attempt, however, would necessarily cost us many lives and millions of dollars in money because of our unprepared condition. We have made great strides in the last five or ten years toward this preparation so far as our navy is concerned. We are also making fair progress so far as forts, torpedoes and harbor defense vessels are concerned. We have superb sets of breech-loading mortars that cover a wide field of approach and far out; we have splendid breech-loading cannon of the largest range and greatest penetrating power; we have swift and sure torpedo boats; we have formidable floating batteries, and we have sea coast guns which spring up like magic, do their work, and then run to instant safety. But our movable army is in just the same condition as to numbers that it was 20 years ago. The large number of trained soldiers who came out of the war of the rebellion have passed away or are too old to take part in any future military operations. So we must begin, should a war come, at the very beginning and go very slowly in order to prepare an effective army, and then mobilize it."

CHILE'S WAR SHIPS.

The Little Country Could Do Much Damage on the Water.

New York, Jan. 21.—Chile's best war vessel and the only one which gives our navy any concern is the Capitan Pratt, and fortunately this has not yet come into her possession, being still under construction at Les Forges et Chantiers de la Mediterianee, Toulon. The Pratt is an armored steel battle ship of 6,000 tons displacement, a little larger, therefore, than our Maine, and was launched December 20, 1890. It is believed that she is now complete, with the exception of receiving her battery. She has a belt of 12 inches of steel, and is credited with a speed of 19 knots. Her powerful armament includes, in the first place, four 9 1-2-inch Carret breech-loading rifles mounted in barbette turrets, one forward, one aft and one on each side amidships. Central loading tubes enable these guns to be loaded in any position, and the thoroughly modern character of the vessel is shown by the substitution of electricity for hydraulic power in working the guns and turrets, while the latter can be worked also by hand in case of need. In addition there are eight 4 3-4 Carret rapid-fire guns, mounted on special carriages in Paris, in closed turrets, two on each side of the ship. These carriages also can be operated either by hand or by electricity.

The secondary battery consists of seven maxim machine guns, six-revolving cannon and eight rapid-fire guns of small calibre, together with four canet torpedo tubes. Taking together her speed, her armor protection, and her great battery power, the Capitan Pratt surpasses anything that we have at present ready to meet her. If she should not be so delivered, she would be of no use to the Chileans, since she would undoubtedly be detained by the French government.

Two other new vessels, launched at La Seyne in June and September, 1890, are the Presidente Errazeuriz and the Presidente Pinto. These have been delivered to Chile and are ready for service. They are protected cruisers of 2,080 tons displacement, or just about that of the Detroit and her sister ship launched recently at Baltimore. They have a length of 268 feet by a breadth of 35 3-4 and were built for speed.

The Esmeralda was considered in her day the best all-around cruiser of her type afloat. She was launched in June, 1883, at the establishment of Sir Wm. Armstrong & Co. She is a protected cruiser of 2,810 tons displacement and originally carried two 10-inch and six six-inch Armstrong guns. It has since been said that the heavier guns did not work well and were replaced by others. She has, of course, an auxiliary battery. This was the vessel that was sent to convey the Inata in the Santiago affair, and there was no little speculation as to the result of a hostile meeting between her and the Charleston when the latter was sent in pursuit.

The Almirante Cochrane, of 3,560 tons, is a casemated battle ship, built at Hull in 1874 from designs of E. J. Reed. She was a sister ship of the Blanco Encalada, which was sunk by a torpedo in Caldera harbor last April.

It was reported some time ago that the Blanco Encalada was to be raised if possible, but it remains to be seen whether Chile will attempt to use her again. At all events her mate, the Cochrane, is an effective ship, with her good battery and her 5-inch armor at the water line, but she is too slow, her engines developing only 2,900 horse power and giving her a speed of about 12 knots.

The Huascar is an ironclad of about 2,000 tons displacement, captured from Peru in 1879. She was built in 1865 and has four and one-half inch armor at the water line, with five and a half and eight inches on the turret. She carries two 12-ton Armstrongs and two 40-pounders, is slow and altogether not formidable.

The principal other war vessels of Chile are her torpedo craft, and in these she greatly excels our navy. Most noticeable among them are the pair of torpedo cruisers, the Almirante Lynch and Almirante Condell. They were launched by the Laird Bros. early in 1890, and the former promptly distinguished herself last year shortly after her completion by sinking the Blanco Encalada, as already mentioned. They have a length of 240 feet, a beam of 27 1-2 and a draught not exceeding 10 feet. They have 38 water tight compartments, a central bulkhead separating the two engine rooms, and two sets of boilers.

WHALEBACK BARGES.

They Would Be Used to Transport Coal in Case of War.

New York, Jan. 21.—We shall not want for transports if the war breaks out. There are at least two score of available steamships, all of American make, which can log at least 14 knots an hour. The United States and Brazil Mail Steamship company has a fleet of five vessels—the Finance, Alliance, Vigilance, Advance and Segmanca—only one of which is under 2,000 tons net. The Segamnnca and Vigilance were launched less than two years ago at Delaware. They are sister ships, constructed of steel, and are driven by triple expansion engines. They can make 15 knots. They are 320 feet long, 45 feet beam and 27 feet deep.

One of the Red D line's trio of vessels, the Venezuela, was tested by a naval board on January 5 and found to be fit for a ship. She is a new boat, having been built by the Cramps in 1889. The Newport, of the Pacific Mail line, was also tried and found satisfactory. There are several more ships of this line, including the City of Para and the City of Peking, which might be used against the bellicose Chileans.

Not least among the available vessels in emergency are the big freighters of the Pacific Improvement company, plying between this port and New Orleans. The newest of this fleet is the El Sol. She and the City of Peking, each measuring 4,300 tons, are the largest American steamships afloat. The El Sol is 400 feet long, 148 feet beam and 33 3-4 feet deep. She has four steel masts, schooner-rigged and has attained a speed of 14 1-2 knots an hour. Her triple expansion engines develop 3,500 horse-power.

There are at least two powerful freight steamships, the Saturn and the Orion, that may be used as colliers. They are now engaged in towing coal between Newport News and Boston.

It has been proposed to utilize one of the steamships and a tow of two or three stanch steel whaleback barges, holding altogether about 10,000 tons of coal as a floating supply station for our war vessels, which will be unable to get coal at way ports between this country and Chile in the event of war. Fred B. Dalzell, who represents the Boston Towboat company, the owners of the Saturn, thinks the scheme is practicable. The Saturn can stand the roughest kind of weather and maintain her grip on her tow. She may be provisioned for six months, and with 3,000 tons of coal in her hold and bunkers, she could stay out at least half a year. Her convoy could be provided with coal from the barges.

WHILE TALKING PEACE

The Chilean War Ships Are Out Picking Up Recruits.

New York, Jan. 21.—The Herald's Valparaiso special dispatch this morning says President Montt told an official high in the Chilean service Tuesday that there was not the slightest doubt but what all matters at present in dispute between the United States and Chile would be amicably settled within a short time.

The Chilean warships Esmeralda, Huascar and Cochrane and two torpedo boats have sailed on a practice cruise. The ships are undermanned. On their southern cruise they will endeavor to obtain recruits.

The sentiment of all classes of the Chilean people is in favor of amicable relations with the United States.

Sending Soldiers West.

Washington, Jan. 21.—The war department has assigned forty recruits from Columbus barracks, O., to the Seventeenth Infantry, department of the Platte.

Complimenting Evans.

London, Jan. 21.—The Times' Santiago dispatch says that Commander Evans, of the Yorktown, very prudently took steps to learn whether the Chilean government would accept Minister Egan's pretension that a mercantile flag would protect political refugees.

He learned that the government declined to guarantee such protection and he therefore carried the refugees away on his warship. His conduct was highly appreciated by Chileans.

The hostile attitude of Minister Egan is in complete contrast to the reasonable conduct of Commander Evans. Exchange has fallen one penny on account of Minister Egan's menaces.

War Talk and the Fair.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—The question was sprung in world's fair circles yesterday as to what effect a war with Chile would have on the exposition. The general opinion was that while a conflict with that republic would do the fair no good, it would do but little harm. Solicitor General Butterworth said: "There will be really nothing to fear from a war which would be confined to Chile, but no one can tell what complications may arise with other nations and seriously affect the exposition in its representation from foreign countries."

Coming Via Freight.

Boston, Jan. 21.—Col. J. H. Fisher, who represents the Chilean government in this city, says that he knows that a letter from the Chilean government is on its way to this country which will be entirely satisfactory to the United States government, and which will lead to an amicable settlement of all difficulties.

SURVEYORS.

They Meet in Columbus and Pass Resolutions.

Columbus, Jan. 21.—The Ohio Society of Surveyors and Civil Engineers met in this city and after the reading of papers by different members the society heard a report from the committee on legislation, which recommended for passage by the legislature of a law "which provides that the governor shall appoint three reputable surveyors of not less than fifteen years' experience to constitute the 'Ohio State Board of Surveyors.' The members will serve six years each, one member to be appointed every two years. Each member to receive $5 a day for their services. The bill further provides that no person shall survey any land or improvement for the public unless he be licensed by the board named."

AN AGED COUPLE.

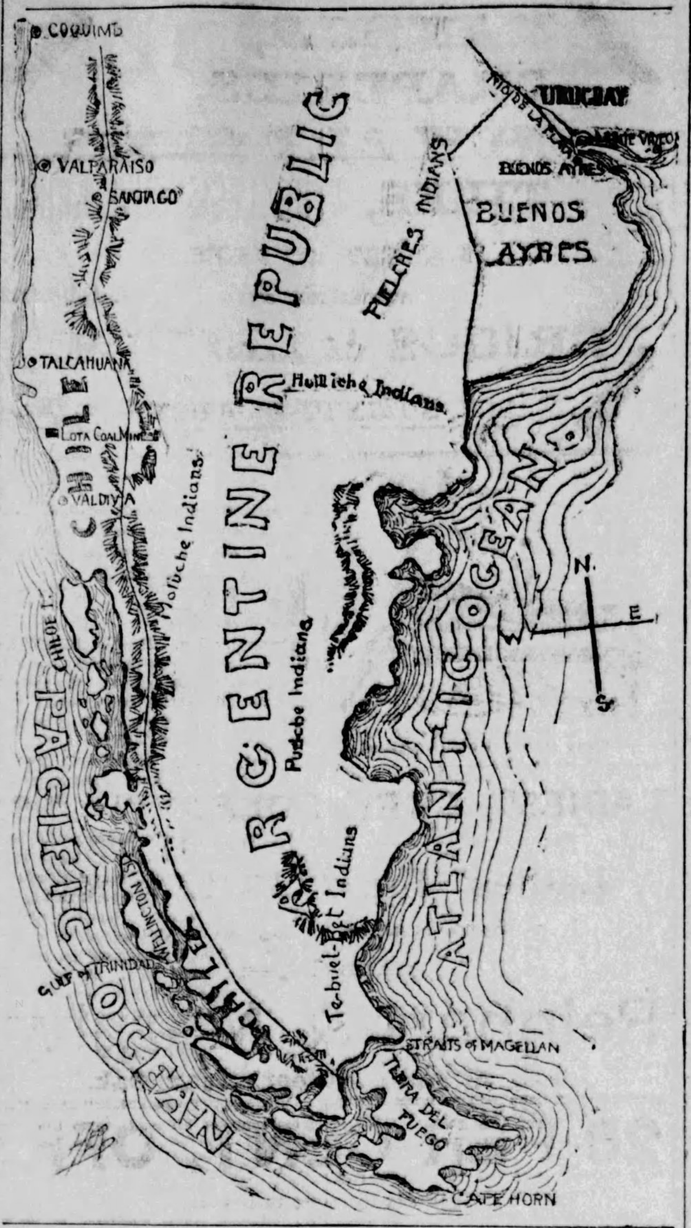
Mr. Grow was present to see his own portrait placed.

Chile and Straits of Magellan.



Chile extends along the western coast of South America for a distance of nearly 3,000 miles, with an average width of 175 miles, forming a long, narrow country, bounded on the west by the Pacific and on the east by mountains. There are few good harbors. The best is that of Talcahuana, which is well protected. Coquimbo is the next harbor in point of safety. The harbor of Valparaiso, though exposed, is the most important on the Chilean coast in the extent of its commerce.

The Straits of Magellan, for which the United States vessels are heading, and where they will probably be met by the Chilean war ships—if there is a meeting at all—separate Chile and Patagonia from Terra del Fuego and the numerous islands at the southern extremity of the South American continent. The passage through these straits saves a long and dangerous trip round Cape Horn. Still such a passage is not without its dangers, also, principally because of the narrowness in places and the violent winds blowing at these points. Long detentions often occur, as there is not sufficient room for working ships. Heavy squalls known as williwaws blow downward from the mountains and are much dreaded. However, for most steamers, the channel is invaluable. There is plenty of coal mined near the shores and the Chileans have a coaling station on the straits. From the map given a fair idea of the lay of the land in this locality can be gained.

A TALE OF HORROR.

Slave Traders at Work on the Coasts.

They Steal Unsuspecting Victims and Carry Them Away to a Foreign Land.

San Francisco, Jan. 21.—A remarkable story is told by a stowaway named James White, who has reached this city from Honolulu.

He shipped on a small trading schooner last May in Australia for a tour among Pacific ocean islands. The schooner had a crew of 15 men and was under the command of a man named Capt. Colton.

White became suspicious when he learned that there were several guns on board, but was informed that they would be traded to islanders.

The schooner, on its first landing, abducted five young girls, and was pursued by natives in canoes. The guns were trained on the canoes, six of which were being devoured by sharks.

The vessel then touched at another island some weeks later and a fight was had in which one of the schooner's crew was killed. A lot of sandal wood was seized at still another island, but the schooner was chased by a French war vessel which, however, did not get within range.

White then decided to leave the vessel and deserted at the first opportunity.

READY FOR ACTION.

The Rules of the Fiftieth Congress Slightly Changed.

Washington, Jan. 21.—The house committee on rules met this morning in Speaker Crisp's room at the Metropolitan hotel and adopted the code of rules governing the Fiftieth congress (when the democrats last held the house) with the exception of a few changes.

The most important of these changes is the reinsertion of a modification of the Holman rule of the Forty-eighth congress, permitting riders on appropriation bills only when they provide for a reduction of the amount named in the bill.

Another important change provides that only one motion to adjourn shall be allowed pending consideration of a report by committee on rules. This is aimed at filibustering, as is also a change limiting the time for introduction of bills on days set apart for the suspension of rules, to one hour. The republicans will offer the rules of the last congress as a substitute.

BACK FROM THE COAST.

Fresno, Cal., Jan. 21.—The train carrying the homeward bound delegates to the convention of the International League Press clubs at San Francisco arrived here this morning and after breakfast several hours were pleasantly occupied in driving through the great San Joaquin valley inspecting the fruitful orchards, vineyards and wine manufacturing points. Train leaves this evening for Los Angeles.

WAS NOT PRESENTED.

Washington, Jan. 21.—There were few spectators when the house was called to order, owing probably to the announcement that the Chilean correspondence would not be presented to-day.

DEMOCRATS IN SESSION

They Are Selecting a Time and Place

To Hold the National Convention.

A Great Gathering of People Who Will Map Out a Line of Action That Will Lead to Victory This Fall.

Washington, Jan. 21.—The banquet hall of the Arlington hotel, where the national democratic committee met today, was handsomely decorated with the flags of all nations—the American colors predominating.

Intertwined among the decorations was running ivy and smilax, with a background of mirrors, which reflected the gay colors and vines in every direction.

In a semi-circle about the seat of the chairman, facing the entrance of the banquet hall, were drawn up 200 chairs. Back of these was an open space. The room accommodated about 600 persons.

At 12:10 Chairman Brice called the committee to order.

Commissioner Ross' speech of welcome to the national democratic committee was as follows:

"Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the National Democratic Committee:

"In behalf of the local democracy, and in the name of all the people of the District of Columbia, I extend to you a cordial welcome to the capital city of the republic.

"Even in this, the great convention city of the western hemisphere, where so many assemblages of learned and distinguished men have been held, the meeting of this committee, made up of gentlemen of national reputation, dealing with a matter of vital concern to citizens of all the states and territories, is an occasion of the highest dignity and importance."

At 12:20 committee went into executive session.

Mr. Harrity, of Pennsylvania, was present and remained with Mr. Kerr in the room after the committee went into executive session. W. I. Hayes, of Iowa, who is contesting J. J. Richardson's right to represent Iowa, also remained in the executive session. The first question taken up was the Montana contest.

C. A. Broodwater claimed to represent that territory and the Montana committee declared that a vacancy existed.

Later—Mr. Kerr withdrew and Mr. Harrity was selected to represent Pennsylvania.

June 21.

2:25 p. m.—June 21 has been selected as the date to hold the democratic national convention.

It is thought that the balloting for the city in which the convention is to be held will not begin before 10 o'clock to-night.

THE BOYS HAD A CAVE,

And the Police Explored It for Them.

Upper Sandusky, O., Jan. 21.—The police, learning that every evening or so a gang of boys frequented the locality of the water works south of town, on some mysterious purpose, an investigation was made, and in a ravine near the place stated was found a sort of trap door.

This was opened, and a regular dime-novel like cave was revealed. The door gave access to a chamber fully ten feet in height and twelve feet square. It was rudely floored, ceiled and walled with rude boards and planks, and contained a stove, several chairs and some cooking utensils.

From the opposite side started a passage way four feet wide and of the same height as the room. This ran quite a distance east and formed the entrance to another chamber. This was circular in shape and about ten feet in diameter.

This room has evidently been just completed, as it was barren of furniture. The earth composing that part of the hill in which the cave is located is almost as hard as a rock, and how the boys have succeeded in accomplishing the work they have done is certainly remarkable, as they seem to have used very rude tools. How long they have been engaged on the cave is unknown, but fully three car-loads of dirt have been removed.

The object of the boys in constructing this odd rendezvous is what the police are endeavoring to learn, but it is thought they have been reading some cheap literature filled with stuff about witches and other heroes, and thus were prompted to become like subjects themselves. They will be watched that they will get in no evil ways.

BLAZE IN NEW YORK.

New York, Jan. 21.—Fire started at noon in the building 23 West Fifteenth street, occupied by Schneider, Campbell & Co., gas fixtures, and Samuel Green, a dealer in trimmings. The chief losers are Schneider, Campbell & Co., $275,000; Bretano Bros., $100,000; Leo Rheims, importers of fancy goods, $200,000, Green & Co., $50,000; Charles Bantley, embroideries, $50,000.

WHAT RUSSIANS EAT.

London, Jan. 21.—The Lancet publishes an analysis of the bread in common use in the famine-stricken districts of Russia, showing that 10 per cent., and probably more of the article is composed of woody fiber, husks, leafy matter, seeds, silica, sand and other foreign substances. The so-caaled bread is of a dirty brown color and resembles peat. Experts to whom it was submitted failed to recognize it as bread.

A very quiet wedding occurred last evening at 5 o'clock at the home of Wm. Hodgkins on Milburn avenue, when his daughter, Miss Susie, was married to Mr. Frank Finch by Rev. Banford, assistant pastor at Trinity church. The bride was becomingly attired in cream henriette trimmed in chiffon, and was dignified and elegant. Later in the evening a reception was held at Mr. Finch's, on Bancroft street from 8 to 11 o'clock. About 10 o'clock a wedding supper was served. Among the guests were: The Misses Hales, Connolly, Hughes, Van Ness, Wilson, Gossman, Whitneys, Oblinger, and Messrs. Snyder, Crookes, Oblinger, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tuine, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Hass, Mr. and Mrs. MacMilde, Mrs. Glann, Mrs. Morse and Mr. and Mrs Fred Hodgkins.

Last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Macomber occured the wedding of their niece, Miss Marion Smith to Mr. James Furber in the presence of the relatives and intimate friends only. The nuptial knot was tied at six o'clock by Rev. Charles Cravens, under a canopy of smilax and roses. The bride, who is a charming lady, was attired in white crepe and carried bride's roses. The floral decorations were exceedingly pretty and were under Mrs. Suder's supervision. The happy couple left for a week's trip, after which they will go to Grand Rapids, where they expect to make their future home. Among those present were: Miss Matilda Campbell, Walter Morgan, Miss Fockens, Franklin Macomber, Mr. Duffey, of Grand Rapids, Mr. and Mrs. John Kumler, Miss Lamoille Tillinghast, J. Kent Hamilton, Miss Mary Hamilton, Mrs. Cole, Miss Mary Dunlap, Miss Ada Ritchie, Mrs. Campbell, Misses Alice and Julia Campbell, Mrs. John Osborn, Miss Grace Tillinghast, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Franklin, Miss Ann Franklin, Mrs. Cooper, Joe Cooper, Wm. Wells, Mrs. Cravens, Walter Morgan, Nettie Van Dusen, Mrs. Norton, Richard Norton, Miss Julia Norton, Miss Ethel Reed, Miss Cannie Mott, Robert Fockens, Miss Emily Bouton, Judge and Mrs. Cummings.

One of the pleasant occasions of the week was the reception given by Miss Florence Fisk yesterday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock, for her guest, Miss Chancellor, of Dayton. Miss Fisk was assisted by Miss Roth, the Misses Carrie Philips, Grace Weed, Susie Friss, Hattie Lamb and Louis Kitchen in the parlors, and the Misses Marble, Claflin, and Mrs. Van Hoesen in the dining room, aided by the Misses Carrie Kitchen, Lucile Chase, Kitty Tracy and Edith King. Among the guests who called during the afternoon were Misses Burgert, Sharp, Mills, Helen Mills, Suydam, MacKignon, Woolson, Hubbard, Bowman, Goetschins, Smead, Brinkerhoff, Waite, Jennings, Macky, Wilson, Gertrude Brown, Cuddeback, Sawtelle, Mary Tracy, Curry, Blinn, Fisk, Churchill, Thurstin, Gilson, Chapin, Tonkin, Keen, Andrews, Eppstein, Smead, Carrie Ruedy, Van Hoesen, Heston, Kenyon, Wylie, Adams and Moore. WEARY MOTHERS

LOOK AT THIS.

Are these not healthy and bright children? Their appearance does not misrepresent them; they are both healthy and bright. They are the son and daughter of Mr. J. P. Wiley, of Dorchester, Mass., and he has an interesting story to tell in regard to them. The story is as follows:

"In 1885 my wife, accompanied by my little boy, at that time 11 months old, was visiting relatives in Scranton, Penna. The little fellow was suffering untold agony cutting his teeth. My wife was told to try Dr. Hand's Teething Lotion. The effect was magical. It did not stupefy the child, as most remedies of this character do; it simply soothed the pain of the burning and aching gums. I might write a volume, had I the time, praising this remedy, and then not express my feelings or do it justice, it is simply marvellous. After her return to Boston she wanted another bottle, but I found that it was unknown in this city. I corresponded with Dr. Hand, and received in reply a sample of each of his remedies. I used them on both my children, recommended them to all my friends, and have yet to find the person who, after using the remedies, especially Teething Lotion and Colic Cure, that could not praise them. People may say, and have said to me: 'Oh, there must be something in that Teething Lotion that affects a child's brain.' In reply to this, I will say I have two children, a boy and girl, who have been treated with Teething Lotion since time of beginning to end of teething, and I challenge any person to furnish two with any clearer brains. I cheerfully recommend them to parents who love their little ones."

CURRENT TOPICS.

When the coal vases were carried out and the gas was permitted to flare up thousands of chimneys, we congratulated each other. We had seen the end of solid fuel, says the Pittsburg Bulletin. The American, we argued, was progressive. Having enjoyed immunity from dirt and the labor of carrying in coal and carrying out ashes, why, he wasn't going to be caught doing it again. Then, when our annual visitors came, we asked them to observe the change. And out of politeness they observed that the city did look brighter, the streets cleaner; ever so much cleaner than Cincinnati, for instance. And we learned how dreadfully uncomfortable everybody is in Cincinnati. The sensations we experienced were delightful. We who were accustomed to dirt all our lives; who were born and bred on dirt, and told it was healthy, and repeated it with religious punctuality in our annual health reports, and annual reports of trade, and in everything published concerning the city in a general way—we suddenly discovered dirt was a dreadful thing, a serious drawback, if not an insurmountable obstacle to the growth of the city, so we pitied those people down in Cincinnati and thanked heaven we were white compared with them. But when the gas began to go! We do not write in a flippant vein—we never were more serious in our life. But when the gas began to "peg out," almost everybody remembers what was said then. We would make the odious factories put in smoke consumers. The unanimity of sentiment was overwhelming. A man bold enough to insinuate that we would be as dirty as ever in a few years would have been cowed into a corner. But the sentiment was altogether too unanimous. Everybody said it, but few afterward made any motion whatever to enforce the wishes of the public. We are fast dropping back into dirt, and the enjoyment of carbon in the various forms the old health reports demonstrated were blessings in the age when we caught two or three glimpses of the sun throughout an entire winter. And nobody ever mentions Cincinnati now. We should not wonder, at the rate we are progressing now, that the strongest incentive that could be held out to a hard-working housekeeper in Pittsburg would be to promise her that when she dies she may go to Cincinnati.

Lord Hartington—we are quoting from one who knows him well and has worked with him—is by no means so conservative as he often appears, says the Pall Mall Budget. The bent of his mind is rapidly critical and slowly constructive. When any subject is brought before him, he sees first all that can be said against it, and not until he has weighed in the balance of a free, calm, and critical judgment its disadvantages and drawbacks does he take into consideration the gain which might accrue from the change. Hence at first sight Lord Hartington is conservative, but his second thoughts are liberal. This also gives him an appearance of vacillation, of which he is not guilty. One of his colleagues, who perhaps had done his fair share in bringing startling propositions before the cabinet, has noted with undisguised admiration that, no matter what proposal is put before Lord Hartington, he never shies at it on account of its novelty, absurdity, or extravagance. He seems to have a constitutional incapacity to be surprised or shocked. No proposition, however wild and revolutionary, ever seems to disturb his equanimity. He considers it, weighs it, and argues against it as if it were a moderate and ordinary reform. That solid reasonableness of his is perhaps his distinguishing characteristic. He thinks things out carefully and solidly, and, as a minister once remarked, "He may be wrong, but he always hits the nail on the head, and never fails to present you with an awkward nut to crack."

Theodore Child, who is said to be an æsthete and sanitarian as well as an epicurean, says in his recently published book, under the heading of "The Dining-room and its Decoration:" Doubtless the best ornament for a dining-room is a well-cooked dinner, but that dinner will taste all the better in a room that is rationally furnished, agreeably decorated, and heated just to the right point.

The Henri II. dining-room, now so fashionable, with its heavy curtains and portiers, its monumental fireplaces, mantles, and andirons, and its walls decked out with arms, tapestries, and what not, is the most unreasonable of all dining-rooms. All tapestry, portiers, hangings, bibelots, and other such things are objectionable, because they absorb the odors given forth by the drinks and vivands. The display of armor on the walls is a silly affectation.

A host may show his personality and his taste in the arrangement of his dining-room as much as in his dress or in his conversation, and yet nowhere do we see so little originality.

The recent revolution in Brazil is another instance of the peculiar character of the government changes in the great South American republic, and the strange thing about them is that revolution follows revolution always without bloodshed. The late Dom Pedro abdicated and went into banishment without war, the president who succeeded him and who undertook unsuccessfully to play the part of dictator, yielded to indignant popular opinion without shedding blood; and now another government has been set up, and so far the internal troubles have caused no bloodshed. In the January number of The Forum, Mr. Courtenay De Kalb, a citizen of the United States who has long resided in Brazil, shows how each of these changes is a step toward the firmer establishment of constitutional government; and he writes an essay that is full of information not only concerning politics, but concerning the resources and the future prospects of the great South American republic.

The house of commons has 670 members, of whom 495 represent England and Wales, 103 Ireland and 72 Scotland.

The chamber in which it sits is devoted entirely to legislative business and debate, but has not sufficient sitting capacity to accommodate all its members. The object of this is to keep the room small enough for business.

If the chamber were larger it would be impossible to give public business such an informal and conversational talking over as is necessary to a thorough understanding of the matter.

There are men with untrained voices, as well as orators, among the members, and the opinions of the one class should be heard as well as those of the other; so the members are willing to sit close for the sake of hearing what they wish to know about, or to stay away when the subject under discussion is of no interest to them.

The New York Herald gives the following as a proposed sixteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States:

"No state shall pass any law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, or use its property or credit, or any money raised by taxation, or authorize either to be used, for the purpose of founding, maintaining or aiding by appropriation, payment for services, expenses or otherwise, any church, religious denomination or religious society or any institution, society or undertaking which is wholly or in part under sectarian or ecclesiastical control."

Wm. Allen Butler, Dohrman B. Eaton, John Jay, Dr. Huntington, of Grace church; Gen. Thomas J. Morgan, Dr. R. S. McArthur, Prof. King, Justice Strong, of the United States supreme court, and a host of others have given their hearty adherence to the measure, and believe that it should pass in the form proposed.

Extensive and costly improvements are to be carried out at Balmoral during the next four months, says a correspondent. Several of the principal apartments are to be entirely redecorated, and the sanitary arrangements of the castle are to be overhauled.

There have recently been loud complaints at Aberdeen that the river Dee is extensively polluted by sewage at Balmoral, Ballater, Braemer and other places on its banks, and a careful examination of the water at various suspected points was made last autumn with no very satisfactory results.

The queen is, therefore, going to have everything thoroughly looked into, and all defects remedied before her spring visit to Balmoral, which will be made at a later period than usual next year, an intimation having been made that her majesty need not be expected in Scotland until May 27 or 28.

THE OHIO YACHT CLUB

Turns Out En Masse at the Special Meeting,.

And An Interesting Session is the Result.

Commodore Bills Backed by the Club—Committee Appointed to Talk With Mr. Ketcham —Full Report of the "Special."

A most enthusiastic meeting of the Ohio yacht club was held at the club rooms last evening.

The recent request of the board of directors that Commodore Bills resign, followed by the starting of litigation in the courts and the notice to quit the building by Mr. George H. Ketcham, had stirred up considerable feeling among the members, and when they convened last evening there was blood on the moon. A disposition to resent what seemed to be an insult, was rife, and but for the cooler and more conservative judgement of a few, heroic measures would doubtedly have been adopted.

Commodore Bills called the meeting to order, and in doing so drew attention to the occasion of the meeting. He stated that he had been forced to call the meeting to resent what he considered a gross insult to the Ohio yacht club. He then spoke of the notice to quit and suit entered in court for money that had been tendered. In conclusion Mr. Bills said that he knew of no reason why Mr. Ketcham had taken this step, to disorganize the Ohio yacht club unless it was to give vent to a personal spite against him. Why Mr. Ketcham should entertain any such feeling against him he did not understand, as their former relations had been of a very pleasant nature, with the exceptions of a little altercation which occurred over five years ago. He had not sought the election of commodore, did not want it, and it was his first visit to the new club rooms when he appeared to accept the honor unexpectedly conferred upon him. Of the request to resign, he said he didn't understand it and had been enable to gain any information showing why such steps had been taken by the board of directors or what the charges were based on. He wanted the expression of the club, and if it was their desire that he resign, that would end all and he would step down and out at once.

In the absence of Secretary Gunckel, Archie Gassoway was appointed secretary. Then followed a general discussion of the situation. Everybody wanted to know who requested the commodore's resignation and nobody seemed to know, or what caused the unexpected action.

Mr. Tracy started the legislation grinding by making a motion that the board of directors be authorized to borrow the money to liquidate the indebtedness, which received a second.

Judge Pike was of the opinion that if a majority of the board had requested Commodore Bills' resignation in such a clandestine manner, they might antagonize the better interest of the club in this matter and prevent a loan of the money.

Mr. Kent Hamilton spoke in glowing terms of the organization, and its members, and said it would be a matter of deep regret to Toledo to lose the O. Y. C., the pride of our people. Dissension prevails within the ranks which threatens total dismemberment, unless disposed of in a most discreet and conservative manner. It would be well to proceed with extreme caution. A hasty step in the wrong direction might mean wreck and ruin. The board of directors were subject to the direction of the club, and it would take great risk in refusing to abide by the mandate of their superiors. In justice to the board, let it be assumed that it will act as the club directs. The directors are the only authority recognized by law to liquidate a debt, and in them must be vested this power.

The motion prevailed with an amendment that a report be made to the club before any action was taken.

It was then demanded that the resolution adopted by the board of directors be read to the club. The secretary read as follows:

Toledo, Jan. 11, 1892.

Geo. W. Bills, Esq., Commodore Ohio Yacht Club:

Dear Sir—At a special meeting of the board of directors held this evening it was deemed necessary after due consideration, in order to promote harmony and overcome the existing embarrassment that we respectfully request your resignation as commodore of the club. Believing you have the club's interest at heart, and confident you would be in harmony with a movement that is considered essential for its future existence and welfare, even though it be a personal sacrifice on your part, we trust you can comply with the request and in the spirit it is made.

Yours respectfully,
BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

Commodore Bills stated that he was chairman of the board of directors, but was not present at this meeting, and knew nothing of it, and now wanted an expression from the members.

Dr. North moved that the board of directors be requested to give the reason for demanding Commodore Bills' resignation.

Mr. Purney, one of the members, was called upon, and said it was a star chamber session, and he was not at liberty to divulge the proceedings.

At this instant a half dozen members jumped to their feet and claimed recognition of the chair, while the expression given voice to all over the room was evidence that indignation was at a fever heat, and cooler judgment was badly needed to allay it.

A dozen questions were put to the chair at once, to know why this action had been taken, who voted for it, who authorized the meeting. They wanted to know, and that at once.

Mr. Hamilton came to the rescue again, and insisted that the members should not get excited, but take matters cool and face the situation in its crude element. The board of directors had been requested to give their reasons for the strange request, and that was all that could be done at present. It would be well to give the board a chance to convene. Perhaps on a reconsideration the matter would be viewed in another light and the members would come to the conclusion that their action had been too hasty, and they would be willing to withdraw the request. At any rate it would be in the interest of harmony to give them a chance. The board of directors had no power to demand the the commodore's resignation. That official was elected by the club, and the club only could compel him to resign.

Mr. Brown moved that a recess of 15 minutes be taken to give the board time to convent, and take action as requested.

When the meeting came to order at the expiration of the 15 minutes, Commodore Bills called Vice Commodore Tracy to the chair. He then reported as chairman of the board of directors that there was no information to be given out.

It was moved that the request be laid on the table.

This was objected to.

It was then moved that Commodore Bills be exonerated.

Mr. Southard wanted to know what charges they were going to exonerate him from.

Mr. Hamilton presented a resolution to the effect that inasmuch as a request had been presented by the board of directors, asking Commodore Bills to resign, and inasmuch as the request was not accompanied by charges of any nature and the board refuses to account for its action, be it the sense of the meeting that Commodore Bills be instructed to ignore the communication.

This went through with a cheer.

As to the finances Col. Vonte stated that he had collected $500, and that there was $1,200 due the club to July 1 and $1,400 to January 1, 1893.

It was agreed to employ J. K. Hamilton as counsel to defend the interest of the club.

A motion to retain the rooms if possible prevailed.

Mr. Armstrong moved that a comimttee consisting of James H. Southard, E. Bateman and James Blass be appointed to meet Mr. Ketcham, and if possible effect an amicable adjustment of pending difficulties. He said once in the courts the O. Y. C. is done for. He believed that there was a misunderstanding and that it was injustice to accuse Mr. Ketcham of malice or having designs against the organization, without first giving him an opportunity to be heard.

A resolution instructing the committee to meet Mr. Ketcham and assure him that the amount due would be forthcoming on any date he might fix, prevailed, with the addition of Mr. Armstrong's name to the committee.

The committee waited on Mr. Ketcham this morning and reviewed the situation from beginning to end. He said he wanted the money due him from the O. Y. C., but as to a settlement of litigation and pending difficulties he desired to consult his attorney. He stated that the club had not been sufficiently prompt in making the payments and was of the opinion the financial management of the club is not what it should be. He said he viewed the matter strictly from a business standpoint, and he had no personal feeling against the club.

Another meeting was set for 2 o'clock this afternoon, when Mr. Ketcham promised a definite answer.

Mr. Ketcham met Mr. Bills on the street this morning and told him that he had nothing against him (Bills) in this matter.

In common pleas court yesterday afternoon the jury in the case of Goble against Toledo returned a verdict in favor of the city. This was an action for personal injury filed in court on November 8, 1882, to recover $5,000. Mr. Goble, while driving on Huron street, between Jefferson and Monroe streets, the horse, buggy and driver were precipitated into an open sewer. The horse was killed, Mr. Goble badly injured, and the buggy mashed to pieces. The plaintiff claimed the opening was not guarded, and the defense, it seems, proved that it was.

CERNEAUISM GETS A KNOCK.

The circuit court of Franklin county has rendered another decision in the northern jurisdiction and the Cerneau Scottish Rite controversy. The case grows out of the effort of Goodale lodge, Free and Accepted Masons, to expel 34 members of the lodge because they adhered to membership in the Cerneau Scottish Rite against the orders of the grand lodge of Ohio. The decision was on a demurrer on an amended petition filed by the defendants, which was sustained. The decision is in effect a notice to the Cerneaus that they must first submit to a trial by Goodale lodge and be illegally treated before they can sustain an action at law for relief. The decision goes further and says in effect that the court has no right to assume that Goodale lodge will make a wrong decision. The court also holds that the Cerneaus must bring individual action and not as a body. The ruling is viewed as a decided victory for the northern jurisdiction Masons.

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Price Current for Produce and Other Articles

San Francisco "Commercial Herald" of Jan. 14: Review of the week ending, Wednesday, Jan. 13, 1892—The rains continue to be the principal topic of interest in grain circles, as they have been frequent and abundant since the opening of the year, and indicate large crops later on. This has not stayed the downward course of the freight market, which has gone down to £1. Spot opened at $1 81 1-4@82 1-2, and continued to decline, closing at $1.72 1-2@1.75 yesterday. Offerings were not very large during the week, and exporters were not particularly anxious to buy.

The official report showing that the wheat yield of the United States was 611,780,000 bu., has helped to weaken values at home and abroad.

Futures have declined in sympathy with spot. Buyer season opened at $1.86 1-4@1.85 5-8, closing at $1.81 3-4@1.82 1-8 yesterday, on which day there were sales of 5,000 tons. Seller 1889 has dropped from $1.55 5-8@1.52 1-8 to $1.50 1-2.

The charter market has taken a downward turn, the Formosa having been rechartered at £1, the lowest in a very long time. Whether there are any lower deeps can hardly be known, but this is probably the lowest.

Receipts for the week were light—280,221 ctls of wheat and 26,569 1-2 bbls flour. The export movement was very light—503,426 ctls of wheat.

Arrivals at wheat ports, flour and wheat being reckoned together from July 1 to January 9, 1891, compare as follows with those for the same period in 1890:

	Centals.
1891-2	12,623,879
1890-1	9,601,658

The exports of breadstuffs from this port by sea from July 1, 1891, to January 6, 1892, as compared with the corresponding period of 1889-90 have been as follows:

	1891-92		1890-91
	Flour, bbls.	Wheat, ctls.	Flour, bbls.	Wheat, ctls.
Tot'l	1.647,070	9,665,217	648,054	6,536,003

Beerbohm's London Corn Trade List of January 9: England.—The stocks in the principal ports of the United Kingdom have now been returned. The total in the 17 ports, viz.: London, Liverpool, Fleetwood, Hull, Gloucester, Bristol, Newcastle, Sunderland, Stockton, West Hartlepool, Glasgow, Leith (estimated), Dublin, Belfast, Londonderry, Limerick and Newry, were given in detail in yesterday's list, and shows the following totals, at the end of December, for wheat and flour for the past three years:

	1891.	1890.	1889.
Wheat, qrs.	2,001,369	1,418,460	1,165,277
Flour, equal	545,000	550,000	700,000
Total	2,546,369	1,968,460	1,865,277

If 7 1-2 per cent be added for the stocks in the non-returning ports, and 100,000 qrs allowed for wheat and flour in the river in London on December 31 (not included in the returns), the total in first hands comes out at 2,850,000 qrs, against 2,100,000 qrs last year. Thus, the total stocks turn out to be much smaller than expected, as far as those in first hands are concerned. In second hands the stocks are probably about 400,000 qrs larger than at the close of 1890.

India.—The Indian wheat crop reports are not altogether favorable, some of the districts supplying Bombay being especially unsatisfactory. No official reports on the subject have, however, been issued, and without these it is difficult to form a reliable opinion. Last week's shipments from India were again fairly liberal, and nearly all for the United Kingdom, the total was 114,000 qrs, against 50,000 qrs in the corresponding week last year. Thus since April 1, 1891, India has shipped a total of 5,925,000 qrs, against 2,760,000 qrs last year.

London wheat market held higher; corn nothing offering. Liverpool wheat opens dull at 1-2 pence advance; corn one penny lower.

The receipts of wheat at seven principal western points to-day are 254,886 bu., compared with 175,723 bu. on the same day last year.

California Wheat Movement.—The receipts at San Francisco in the week ending Jan. 13 equaled 467,030 bu. of wheat and 26,569 bbls of flour. The exports equaled 839,043 bu. of wheat.

The receipts of wheat to-day at Minneapolis and Duluth are 120,007 bu, and at five other principal western points 134,879 bu. Recipts at these seven points in 1891, 175,000 bu. The export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were wheat 143,798 bu, and flour to an aggregate of 30,000 bu. The export of corn was 335,000 bu, and of oats 202,905 bu.

English markets as reported herein are a shade higher on wheat and lower on corn.

The Markets To-day.

The wheat markets on this side are apparently gathering strength, and dealers more confidence. With very little upward change abroad we have had a rally in prices of 3c in the western markets. We are glad to see it, of course, but there is more than the usual mystery about the advance. Western prices are above Liverpool. The quotation in that market this morning equals 15 1 2c per bu, and the rail and ocean freight is 20c per bu.

Day before yesterday we commented on the statement of the Mark Lane Express, that the stock of wheat in England was 50,000,000 bu. We print herein Beerbohm's statement giving the stock at 22,800,000 bu, against 16,800,000 bu in 1891. It is a very extraordinary difference. Beerbohm comments upon it, as not so very excessive as had been supposed.

But we are all parrots and echo and re-echo the statements of "enormous supplies on the other side," without knowing much about it, and without considering that it may be the policy of importing markets to augment these statements for effect on prices.

'Grim visaged war" is not a probable outcome of the negotiations now pending concerning Chile, and we earnestly hope mediatory measures will prevail. In this period of Christian civilization war need not and should not be waged to procure peace. We think the effect of this attempt at a settlement should have a favorable influence on prices.

Chicago and New York wheat markets advanced 1 1-2c during the fore part of the sessions, but before the close became much weaker, and the advance was more than lost and markets closed weak.

Corn has been weaker and has declined slightly.

Liverpool is reported as closing better. Paris lower. Antwerp unchanged.

In New York January wheat closed 3-8 May 1-2 lower. January oats 3-8 lower. and May 5-8 lower. January corn 3-4 and in Chicago May wheat closed 5-8 lower and May corn 1-2 lower.

In Toledo.—The market for wheat futures has been moderately active, and prices were higher during the fore part of the session, but became weak and declined 1-4c below the price of yesterday. On the call May wheat sold at 97c. After the call at 97@97 3-4c, and declined to 96 3-4c. July sold at 93c.

Cash wheat opened higher and advanced 1c, but lost it. No. 2 soft sold at 92 1-4c to 93c and back to 92c. At the close 91 3-4c was the price, a loss of 1-4c; No. 3 soft at 90c L. S.

Corn—On the call May sold at 42c. After the call No. 2 at 40 1-2c; No. 3 at 39c to 39 1-4c; No. 4 at 38c; No. 2 yellow at 40 1-2c; No. 3 yellow at 39 1-2c. Nothing in oats or rye. Dressed hogs $5 25.

Clover seed was firm, and a shade higher. Prime for cash at $5 62 1-2 to $5 60, closing at $5 62 1-2; January, $5 65; No. 2 at $5 45. On the call March sold at $5 70.

CHEATING IN HORSE BLANKETS

Nearly every pattern of 5A Horse Blanket is imitated in color and style. In most cases the imitation looks just as good as the genuine, but it hasn't the warp threads, and so lacks strength, and while it sells for only a little less than the genuine it isn't worth one-half as much. The fact that 5A Horse Blankets are copied is strong evidence that they are THE STANDARD, and every buyer should see that the 5A trade mark is sewed on the inside of the Blanket.

It has rather a bad look that every last democrat was ruled off the jury in the Quay libel case, on some pretext or other.

If Chile backs down, apologizes and makes reparation, Uncle Sam can afford to call off his dogs of war. Otherwise, let 'er go, Gallagher.

"Senator Sherman says that Blaine ought not to accept the presidential nomination on account of his poor health, and also adds that it is doubted if Harrison could carry Ohio."

And here the senator who has just secured a great victory in politics in his state pauses for another to conclude the prognostication.

What is the N. Y. Tribune shootin' at when it says: "It will not do to suffer a National campaign to be turned into a hospital for crippled combatants or sickly reputations?"

Does it mean to thus knock out both Blaine and Harrison?

The wool growers of the country feel a sense of security when they think that a republican senate and a republican president stand between them and a free trade democratic congress.—Organ.

Which is kind of the wool growers, seeing that the price of their commodity has gone down ever since the republican lawmakers took their case seriously in hand.

The Chicago Tribune says: "The Gray presidential boom bags visibly at the knees." The Gray boom is not very vigorous, just at present, it is true, but the Tribune would be puzzled to show a candidate of the other party to-day whom the people look upon as yard-wide, all-wool, warranted not to sag or shrink.

There is one thing that they might as well make up their minds to do down in the East, that they can't have wool free when it come from the sheep's back, and put a tariff on it when is comes on our backs.—McKinley to the Ohio Farmers.

Which is very unjust of Ohio's governor, when he believes (or assumes to), that a tariff on the clothes "on our backs" will cheapen the price to the man who buys them.

Ex Senator Blair expresses the wish that the Australian ballot law may be repealed in New Hampshire and in every state where it has been enacted. This is the gentleman who championed the bayonet-at-the-ballot-box measure known as the federal election or force bill. Mr. Blair is consistent, and a beautiful specimen of the sort of statesman sectionalism, bigotry and intolerance combined turns out.

The tin-plate manufacturers have about concluded that another cent per pound duty must be imposed on their product. The galvanized sheet-iron trade has been able to advance prices under the protection already afforded, although pig iron is selling at Pittsburg for the lowest prices on record. A grievous time they have getting this tax business arranged so that everybody but the consumer shall reap a benefit.

The Chilean minister at Washington intimates that his country will take its own time to consider American grievances. Probably after the big Chilean battle ship, which is nearly ready for sea, in Toulon, France, is afloat we shall have another chapter of bluster and defiance. Now is the accepted time for settlement, and if Benjamin Harrison possesses the fighting spirit of his grandfather he will make the Chileans come to time in short order.

The republican brethren strenuously object to the plan likely to be pursued in the house, of attacking the McKinley monstrosity in detail. This is well. The plan would not be worth following if the McKinleyites did not cry out against it. The democrats are satisfied that no step backward in tariff reform will be taken under Chairman Springer's management of the measures before the ways and means committee. If the republican brethren don't like his plan, they would better begin to study what they are going to do to defeat it. Their objections will not change it.

It is said there is a sharp demand for copies of the catalogues, descriptive of abandoned farms in the New England states. An organ in that region says "this will disappoint tariff reformers." Why are there so many abandoned farms in New England? is the question to be discussed. One of the tenets of the protectionist creed is, that to plant and maintain factories in a locality creates a demand for farm products and advances prices for the same. What is the matter in New England, that the reverse is proven true? A demand for catalogues descriptive of deserted homesteads for which there was no sale at any price, is not a matter for any man's rejoicing. Perhaps the classes which have waxed wealthy through governmental aid may buy them up for park preserves.

Secretary Blaine is interesting in his versatility, even extending to the matter of bodily health. The concern that has been kept alive through fluctuations of his pulse and the uncertainty of the significance of the cause, has extended over a good many months, and the serio-comic performance grows in intensity of interest as the crisis of affairs approaches. Yesterday he was carried to his home from a cabinet meeting prostrate and helpless with pain, and the press of the country teemed with prognostications: to-day he is giving a dinner in honor of the President and Mrs. Harrison, to which other distinguished men and women are bidden, and he is the model host, everywhere present and everywhere agreeable. The worst wish of his political enemies is that in this will-o'-the-wisp chase after health and strength, he may come off the rejoicing victor.

War news is more pacific to-day. Chile is learning something of the temper of the people of the United States and has discovered that trifling with this country is dangerous if carried too far. Now that the administration has set about in earnest to have satisfaction the old scores should also be settled. Chile may be small compared with this great republic, but national honor should be maintained at all times. For smaller cause England has repeatedly let loose her dogs of war and every nation, great or small, the world over, respects England when she speaks. Peace is all glorious, but history never prepared a book for any nation eternally at peace. The United States is now enjoying its longest period of absolute peace. Would that it might continue indefinitely, but to be well ready for war is the best way to command respect, and therefore peace. The Chile episode should not pass into history until full satisfaction is assured and future respect guaranteed.

And if England's influence shall decide Chile to make the reparation demanded, then will the mother country add one more laurel to the wreath of the modern-day peacemaker. Not only this, she will interfere with our scrimmage prospective, out of which we anticipated glory and prestige, and will be protecting her great commercial interests, which have grown up in that country by virtue of unrestricted trade. Natural and commendable as this may be, how will our jingo politicians this side of the water, who seethe with anger at the mention of England's name, accept the situation? The matter is further complicated by the influential citizens in this country who are financially interested in Chilean property. War would interfere with their profits. And this they tell us is the milk in the cocoanut that has transformed brother Blaine from a rattling jingoist into an angel of patience and forbearance. However the affair shall be settled, it will be remembered that the southern democrats, whom some northern ranters delight to call "rebels," were the first to give evidence of their loyalty by outspoken support of the government, and a request for the privilege to fight to maintain its honor, should it become necessary.

The general assembly committee on the revision of the Presbyterian confession of faith has eliminated the damnation of infants in these substituted words:

"Infants dying in infancy, and all other persons who are not guilty of actual transgression are included in the election of grace, and are saved and regenerated by Christ through the spirit who worketh when and where and how he pleaseth."

And of the heathen, or a portion of them, in this addendum:

"So also are all other elect persons who are not outwardly called by the ministry of the word."

Another revised section now reads:

"Works done by unregenerate men, although they may be things which God commands and of good use both to themselves and to others, and although the neglect of such things is sinful and displeasing to God, yet, because they proceed not from a heart purified by faith, nor are done in a right manner, according to the word, nor to a right end, the glory of God, and do not meet the requirements of the divine law, hence they cannot be pleaded as a ground of acceptance with God."

And still another:

"Prayer is to be made for things lawful, and for all sorts of men living or that shall live hereafter, but not for the dead."

The general expression of doctrine as to the future life, after long and vigorous discussion, was decided as follows:

"The rest of mankind God saw fit, according to the unsearchable counsel of his will, whereby he extendeth or withholdeth mercy as he pleaseth, not to elect unto eternal life, and them both he ordained to dishonor and wrath for their sins to the praise of his glorious justice. Yet hath he no pleasure in the death of the wicked, nor is it his decree, but the wickedness of their own hearts which restraineth and hindereth them from accepting his grace made known in the gospel."

Every revision of creed illustrates the evolution of Bible theology, and the living church is always ahead of its dogmas. That these revisions will be accepted by the general body is by no means certain, and what bearing they will have upon the faction represented by Dr. Briggs is also a matter of conjecture.

Of the patria party before and after election the Chicago Times says: The horoscope of that tender political nursling the patria party, as cast by those hopeful astrologers, George William Curtis and Larry Godkin, is full of promise, but after the election next fall the few deluded ones may say, as did Betsey Prig of the evanescent Mrs. Harris: 'I don't believe there's no sich a party.'"

Senator Hill is a man who makes ardent enemies. He has thousands of them outside his party, and some few within it. These latter, if they do not mean to push his political fortunes, will do well to heed the warning of the Boston Globe, when it says: "It may not be out of place to suggest to the persistent maligners of Senator Hill that other men than Grover Cleveland may be loved for the enemies they have made."

Indications are that the charitably inclined need not worry about opportunity to aid Russia. Her starved and unclothed exiles are coming to our shores in sufficient numbers to engage our attention. Four hundred of them have arrived in Fall River, Mass., within a few weeks, and six hundred more are on the way. These all need practical mission work done for them.

It seems likely to become a serious question not only why the murderous cranks are multiplying so rapidly, but why they are not locked up when the first bad symptoms are developed. It is said that Jack the Slasher was left at large "on account of good family connections and wealthy friends." One would think recent warnings quite sufficient.

The St. Louis Republic, on the threatened exposure of republican methods in Indiana, says: "The reports that Mr. Harrison himself handled the Blocks-of-Five fund in Indiana are not entirely new. There was complaint at the time, originating as it seemed with those who objected to Kid Glove prices as calculated to 'bear' the vote market."

Gen. Alger is quoted as saying Secretary Blaine would accept a presidential nomination through motives of patriotism only. Not a few willing patriots would stand up to be counted, when it comes to that, and it must not be forgotten Gen. Alger has himself been a "willing Barkis" these many years.

The Georgia building at the World's Fair will be built of Georgia pine. Lumbermen of the state will contribute their finest specimens, and, it is said, the beauty of this pine finished in oil as hard wood will astonish the natives as well as the foreigners.

The Modest Record.

The chief interest of the democrats of Pennsylvania in the next presidential contest is in the nomination of a candidate, as they cannot expect to have any share in his election. They should therefore do as little as possible to embarrass the democrats in states that can elect a democratic president.—Philadelphia Record.

Be Sure You're Right, Then Go Ahead.

AN INSIDE VIEW.

The Tariff Responsible Indirectly, for the Chilean Trouble.

Hon. Clement Carpenter, who was secretary of legation at Santiago during the Hayes administration, gave a Bee the benefit of his observations during his stay in that country. As Mr. Carpenter is able to converse in Spanish and to read their newspapers, he gathered more information than he could have done, otherwise. He says had not our short-sighted trade policy shut us off so completely from intercourse with our southern neighbors, Chile would know something about this country. As it is, she is lamentably ignorant. The average Chilean's idea of our republic is about as lucid as the school boy's understanding of China. The cartoons in their recent newspapers represent Uncle Sam, lank and shabby, standing amidst a few old rotten ships and menacing great and warlike Chile. That's the editorial understanding of the situation. The English are everywhere in the South American countries through trade acquaintanceship, resultant from her free and open trade policy. They believe we care only for the hoarding of dollars and are too mercenary to expend any of them in vindication of national honor, and that it will be an easy matter to vanquish the United States. He thinks the bumptious little republic needs a shaking up at our hands, not only for present-day insolence but for insulting indifference to our just claims in the past.

TENTH ANNUAL MEETING

Of D. A. 72, K. of L.—The Order in Flourishing Condition.

Yesterday at Clark's hall was held the tenth annual meeting of D. A. 72, Knights of Labor. It was, delegates are unanimous in saying, one of the best and most interesting meetings ever held in this city in the interest of the order. Doubtless the recent convention here of the general assembly benefited the order, and its members are usually very much alive to questions of legislative and industrial reforms, and so are receiving present benefit from the University Extension course The discussions in the district meeting upon plans of work for this year developed the policy to be one along strictly educational lines.

The delegates in attendance represented the local assemblies of knights in the towns of Wood, Henry, Sandusky, Erie, Seneca, Fulton, Ottawa, and Hancock counties, as well as those of this city. The morning session was devoted to receiving the reports of the retiring officers and action on the same.

In the afternoon a great deal of new business was transacted, some of which is of interest to the public. The application of John B. Rae, retiring president of the United Mine Workers, for the position of labor commissioner for Ohio was heartily endorsed. The new president and secretary of the district were instructed to have printed petition heads for petitions to be circulated in this part of Ohio demanding a constitutional amendment which shall provide for the election of United States senator by the direct vote of the people. It was unanimously decided to elect a delegate to represent the knights of this district in the coming industrial conference at St. Louis.

Election of officers for the year resulted as follows: District master workman, Mrs. A. P. Stevens, Toledo; worthy foreman, John Pontious, Napoleon; recording and financial secretary, Charles R. Martin, Tiffin; treasurer, Hugh O'Reilly, Toledo.

Executive Board—Mrs. A. P. Stevens, chairman; Chas. R. Martin, secretary; Phil Buerckle, Sandusky; E. R. Linhart, Fostoria; Fred Frech, Hugh O'Reilly, Miss Josie Skehan, Toledo.

Mrs. Stevens was elected delegate to the St. Louis Industrial conference, and Richard Kind alternate.

Organizers reccommended for the coming year are Richard Kind and J. R. Lacey, the latter of Harrison township, Henry county.

EDWARD REMENYI,

The Famous Violinist, Delights a Large Audience Last Evening.

Remenyi, the famous violinist, appeared in Toledo last evening at Wheeler's, in the Star Course. He was assisted by Mrs. Alice May Rice, soprano; Miss Edith McGregor, alto; Wm. H. Fessenden, of Boston Ideal fame, tenor; and Miss F. Cliff Berry, pianist. It is seldom that such a talented company is brought together. Toledoans recognized their privilege and filled the house to overflowing. It was the treat of a lifetime.

Remenyi was in a happy mood. He played as only few men in the history of the world can. Time and time again he responded to the encores and still his hearers longed for more. He appeared three times on the program, playing his Fantaise on the Hugenots, Hungarian melodies of his own arrangement and compositions of Chopin and Schubert. There is no music that so nearly brings one in touch with nature as the strange, wild gypsy-like melodies of Hungary, and Remenyi's interpretations brought out all their beauty. His performance on the violin needs not criticism, and none will be attempted. Mrs. Rice, Miss McGregor and Mr. Fessenden appeared in two trios; Face a Quest Alma by Campana and La Separazione by Pensuti, and each had solo numbers as well. Every number on the program was a gem, and it will be a long time before those who attended will forget the event.

FORGED CHECKS

Will Cause Mr. Zimmerman Some Trouble if He is Found.

Another forger has been doing some work about the city in a small way and the police are now looking for him.

On last Tuesday Mr. H. W. Wilhelm, of the United Truck and Storage company, was notified by the Ketcham National bank that a suspicious check on his company had been presented there. Mr. Wilhelm investigated and found the check to be for $79 and it was a forgery.

The check was presented by a bartender named Coler, who said he had cashed its face for Isaac J. Zimmerman, formerly barn foreman for the trucking company.

The police were notified and started on a still hunt for Zimmerman, but as yet he has not been found.

He was heard from again yesterday, however, in the shape of another check for $125, which came to the Ketcham bank from a Detroit bank, where it had been cashed. This check had Wilhelm's signature on it in the same handwriting as the other and was evidently Zimmerman's work.

This man Zimmerman worked for the Truck and Storage company about three months, but did not give very good satisfaction. He left the employ of that company last Friday.

MIXED POLISH

Gives the Police Court Some Trouble.

A queer case was tried in police court this morning and gave the court considerable annoyance. It was the trial of George Navareski for assaulting Jacob Bappowski. Both parties were Polish, as were all the witnesses, and the court was obliged to take a recess until an interpreter could be found. When the interpreter was secured all the people wanted to talk at once and the jargon was something frightful.

Finally, after the evidence was in and the matter straightened out, it was developed that the complaining witness had been drunk and started the trouble by abusing his own family and the defendant came in to protect the wife and children.

Navareski was discharged and the costs assessed on the complainant.

BROWN'S CASE

For Pointing a Revolver at Mr. John Kelting.

The case against Mr. Walter Brown, for pointing fire arms, was continued in police court this morning until next Saturday, when it will be tried before a jury.

Mr. Brown was arrested yesterday, as previously mentioned in the Bee, for pointing a revolver at Mr. John Kelting one day last week. Mr. Kelting has employed Lawyer Byron Ritchie to assist in the prosecution of the case and Mr. Brown is represented by H. E. King.

ADAMS OCHS DEAD.

He Was Struck by a Train in Chicago Last Night.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—Ex-County Commissioner Adam Ochs is the latest victim of the deadly railway crossing.

While driving across the Pan Handle tracks at May and Kinzie streets at 6:30 last evening his cutter was struck by a passenger train. Mr. Ochs was thrown 20 feet.

His skull was crushed in several places and his left leg badly mashed. He was taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital and died a few minutes after his arrival.

Ochs was a member of the famous boodle county board and served two years in the penitentiary.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

AT THE MERCY OF A FIRE.

Chicago is Greatly Excited To-Day.

Her Water Supply Has Been Cut Off.

The Crib at the Outer End of the Tunnel Has Filled Up With Ice and the Pumps Refuse to Do Their Work.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—For the first time in its history Chicago is threatened with a water famine that may prove of great injury to all business interests and a menace to property all over the city.

At midnight last night the lake crib at the end of the tunnel the main source of the city's water supply, began to choke up with ice and this morning was frozen solid for the first time since the tunnel was built.

All the manufactories in the city were unable to start up this morning and all the hotels and residences could not secure even enough water for cooking purposes.

Fortunately only a light wind was blowing, so a serious conflagration is not threatened. In case of fire the fire department would be almost helpless. One or two small fires broke out this morning but owing to the favorable conditions they were quickly extinguished by chemical engines.

Thousands of householders are crowding into the city hall and clamoring for water but the city authorities are unable to satisfy them or assure them that they will be granted immediate relief.

OHIO MINERS.

They Meet at Columbus and Adopt a Grist of Resolutions.

Columbus, O., Jan. 21.—Every mine in the state is represented at the meeting of the Ohio district, American Mine Workers.

Resolutions were adopted indorsing the speedy passage of a law to prohibit Chinese immigration; that all delegates shall upon their return home circulate petitions to be sent to congress to this effect; that delegates believe it to the best interests of the craft that this district is represented in the great industrial conference to be held in St. Louis February 22; that as the semi-monthly pay law has been grossly violated in certain sub-districts in regard to yardage, each miner driving narrow work or yardage shall demand from the mine or pit boss that his place shall be measured and his yardage turned in and paid for monthly under penalty of supension or expulsion; that all miners not belonging to some miners' union after May 1 shall be considered non-union men, and shall be treated as such; that the mine inspector be urged to enforce the law in regard to break throughs; that the legislature be urged to pass a law requiring the weighing of all coal before screening.

Resolutions demanding machine miners be paid three-fifths the price for pick mining, and recommending the abolishing of the defense fund, were recommended by the committee, but will be acted upon later.

MILLS IS SPUNKY.

He Will Not Serve on the Commerce Committee.

Washington, Jan. 21.—In Congressman Mills' letter to Speaker Crisp in which he resigns the chairmanship of the committee on interstate and foreign commerce, he says that he prefers to hold no chairmanships in the present congress as he believes that he can do better work on the floor than in a position that is uncongenial to him.

The real reason for his action, however, is understood to be his determination to canvass actively for the Texas senatorship and he does not care to spend very much time in the house while the canvass is going on.

YOUNG BLAINE PLEAD POVERTY.

Deadwood, S. D., Jan. 21.—In the case of Mary Nevins vs. James G. Blaine, Jr., an order was made by Judge Thomas yesterday, fixing temporary alimony at $600 and attorney's fees at $400. The former sum granted by the court a month ago as temporary alimony and attorney's fees by the court was $800 for alimony and $300 for fees. This has been cut down upon the defendant pleading poverty.

A FALSE RECORD

Occasions a Dispute Between a Toledo Liveryman and a Horse Trainer.

Some time ago C. J. Peet, the East Side liveryman, came into possession of a promising colt. He did not have time to properly train the animal, but believing that it was speedy, he secured the services of C. D. Rose, a horse trainer, to take the horse, agreeing to give him a half interest if he developed in two years' time a record of 2:40. Rose took the horse east and in course of time notified Peet that it had made a record of 2:39 1-2. Mr. Peet investigated the matter and alleges that the record was not made, and on those grounds refused to live up to the agreement. Rose now brings suit in the common pleas court in this city to recover $1,000 for services. In his answer Mr. Peet alleges that Rose bribed the timer to stop the watch at 2:39 1-2, no matter what the horse made, and presents affidavits of the timer in question and one of the judges to substantiate his allegations.

ON THE SNOW.

Yesterday's Racing Full of Interest.

Duke S. Took the Blanket After Giving Willard M. and Morehouse a Hard Race.

Yesterday's races on the snow were fully as interesting as the day before from the fact that a dark horse put in an appearance and captured the prize.

Tine Ketcham's Willard M, was the tip for the day, made so by his good work of the day previous but he left his feet at critical times and was not in the race.

Volk's Duke S, driven by a negro was unknown to the spectators but he soon became a favorite.

At the start Willard M crowded Billy Morehouse's chestnut and it looked like a close race between them, but when Duke S got down to business he found an opening and shot to the front and was never headed winning with ease.

The second heat started with the horses well in line, but Willard M lost his feet and the Duke S, and Morehouse settled down for a tight race. At Twentieth street the chestnut pushed the Duke hard, but could not head him and Volk's horse shot across the line a winner by two lengths, and was awarded the blanket.

The race programm will be completed to-day.

Minnehaha, Gus. Rasor's splendid animal, did not enter owing to a mishap before the race.

Don't Suffer—Catarrh Can be Cured

It commences with a cold in the head, soreness of the throat, hacking cough, hawking and spitting in the morning, raising lumps of matter which form in the throat, the nose passages stopped up, and difficulty of breathing, pain above and between the eyes. Catarrh also causes a very offensive smell, which the sufferers would not be aware of, but which is very disagreeable to those associating with them.

Pleasures of Memory.

What a blessed thing is memory? How it brings up the pleasures of the past, and hides its unpleasantnesses! You recall your childhood days, do you not, and wish they would return? You remember the pleasant associations, while the unpleasant ones are forgotten. Perhaps to your mind comes the face of some friend. It was once a pale, sad face. It showed marks of pain, lines of care. It seemed to be looking into the hereafter, the unknown future. And then you recalled how it brightened, how it recovered its rosy hue, how it became a picture of happiness and joy. Do you remember these things? Many people do, and gladly tell how the health returned, how happiness came back, how the world seemed bright. They tell how they were once weak, nerveless, perhaps in pain, certainly unhappy. They tell of sleepless nights, restless days, untouched food, unstrung nerves. And then they tell how they became happy, healthy and strong once more. You have heard it often in the past, have you not? You have heard people describe how they were cured and kept in health? You certainly can remember what it is that has so helped people in America. If not, listen to what Mrs. Annie Jenness Miller, who is known universally as the great dress reformer, says: "Six years ago, when suffering from mental care and overwork, I received the most pronounced benefit from the use of that great medicine, Warner's Safe Cure." Ah, now you remember. Now you recall how many people you have heard say this same thing. Now you recollect how much you have heard of this great Cure. Now you are ready to admit that memory is usually pleasing, that the highest pleasure comes from perfect health, and that this great remedy has done more to produce and prolong health than any other discovery ever known in the entire history of the whole world.

One-eighth of the population may be put in this category—that is, that is, there are 7,500,000 young men in America. Only 15 in every 100 go regularly to church Out of each 100 some 75 never go. Only 5 per cent. of the total number are Christians, viz., 375,000. In our jails there are 150,000 prisoners, 70 per cent. of whom are young men. Only one-fifth of the active criminals are ever in jail at any one time. This would make our criminal population number 750,000, of which total 590,000 are young men. These are appalling statistics.

They are telling in Washington this story of Senator Kyle's campaign methods! When a candidate for congressman he made a house-to-house canvass; and he had a very large district to cover. At the time he put in his best work the farmers were really to busy to talk politics. Mr. Kyle took with him in a buggy a big stout negro, and then went right into the fields after his votes. Introducing himself to the busy tiller of the soil, and engaging the latter a moment in conversation, he would have the negro take the plough and continue the field work, while candidate and farmer would go off under a tree take a smoke and talk things over.

Sir Edward Arnold is now criticised by a native Japanese living in this country, Yabake Sangin by name, for taking too "poetic" a view of people and things in Japan. The gifted Englishman, he says, erroneously attributes certain graces and virtues of the people in that kingdom to the influence of Buddhism; while Mr. Sangin insists that they inhere in the race regardless of religion. He insists that the poet errs in saying, after praising the Japanese for their cleanliness, that they "have no towels, no sheets, no underclothes, no linen;" in representing the jinricksha men as living on a cup of tea and a small biscuit, instead of having voracious appetites, and in several other particulars.

BRAZIL IN ARMS AGAIN.

Prisoners Overpower the Guards at the Fort,

And Capture the Country's Base of War Supplies.

The Government Has a Hard Time to Re-Take the Breastworks From the Rebels—Order Again Restored.

Rio, Janeiro, Jan. 21.—After a season of comparative tranquility, this city has again become very generally disturbed and the citizens have been thrown into a state of excitement approaching the feeling which prevailed here during the uprisings which resulted in the dethronement and banishment of the late Dom Pedro, and the overthrow and subsequent retirement to private life of the dictator, Gen. da Fonseca.

The trouble began Tuesday evening, when 160 prisoners confined for various offenses in Fort Santa Cruz, situated on the east side of the entrance to the harbor of Rio Janeiro and two miles south of the city, mutinied and succeeded in overpowering and disarming the guards and soldiers stationed at the place.

Emboldened by their success, the prisoners resolved to extend their scope of operations. Armed with the weapons taken from their former guards, they advanced upon Forts Pico and Lage, overcome the soldiers on duty and took possession of the two forts and all the munitions of war which they contained.

The prisoners, after perfecting all their arrangements for guarding the forts against the attacks which they knew the government would surely make to dislodge them, boldly demanded the restoration to power of the deposed dictator, Gen. da Fonseca.

The government officials, when they became aware of the gravity of the situation, hurried all their available forces to the scene of the uprising. The troops were so placed as to surround the forts held by the rebels on the land side, while the Brazilian war ships which were in the vicinity were stationed so as to guard the sides of the forts which faced on the harbor.

The rebels were very defiant and kept up a desultory fire while the government forces were making preparations for the attack. The insurgents, however, were evidently without discipline or organizations and the shots fired from the forts were illy directed and did no harm to the troops.

Matters continued in this state until yesterday forenoon, when the arrangements for taking the fort by storm were perfected.

The order to advance on the rebels was at length given and the troops at once moved on to the attack, while the guns on the war vessels in the harbor began to thunder forth and hurl their death-dealing shells through the air.

The efforts of the soldiers were directed against Fort Pico. They made a combined grand assault on the works and after a show of resistance by the rebels, the troops carried the fort and the government was again placed in possession.

In the meantime the gunboats were bombarding Fort Santa Cruz, and so effective was their work that the rebels were soon forced to throw down their arms and surrender themselves to the authorities.

The troops eventually obtained possession of all the forts which had been seized, and the prisoners after their brief and intensely exciting period of freedom, were again placed in cells and a strong guard was detailed to watch over them to prevent a repetition of the stirring scenes which followed their outbreak from the fort.

The leader of the rebels, when he saw that further resistance was useless, and knowing the fate which would undoubtedly befall him should he be captured, resolved to take his own life, and when the soldiers reached the place where he had been fighting, they found his dead body lying on the ground.

The firing during the attack of the forts was plainly heard throughout the city and caused the greatest consternation among the residents. Many timid persons sought places of safety until the fighting had ceased, and a number of stock operators and others closed their places of business and securely bolted and barred their doors and windows.

The Anti-Christian Riots in China.

The Captured Children Were Roasted Alive.

Horrible Details of the Outrages Being Committed—Leaders Captured and Their Heads in the Basket.

San Francisco, Jan. 21.—Advices from the scene of the riots in North China say there is no question that they are anti-Christian rather than anti-foreign or anti-dynastic.

The scene of the trouble is not in Mongolia proper but in the province of Chile, just outside of the great wall. One movement is attributed to a bandit chief, who took revenge for the stealing of his wife, and the other is ascribed to the secret society of rationalists.

The robber band operated about Jehol, while the society rioted near Pakou. They attacked all the native Christians, and burned the mission buildings. November 21 they massacred the Christians five miles from Pakou. One Christian escaped.

This native gave the horrible details of the movement, saying the children were roasted alive. The courier sent to warn Bishop Rutigs was caught, murdered and mutilated.

The governor of Anhui presents a long report to the throne giving an account of the suppression of the rebellion in his province and Kiansu. He declares that one leader of the Kalao Hui society had eight thousand men enrolled and had collected large sums. His final purpose was to overthrow the government.

Several discharged soldiers also became leaders of the branches of this society. Twelve of those men have been decapitated and five others imprisoned.

Native papers give accounts of the victories of the imperial troops over the bandits in Mongolia, but all the principal details were sent by cable.

A Tientsin correspondent furnishes details of the narrow escape of Rev. J. Parker, of London, from Chaoyang. Before daybreak he was aroused by the shouts of the rioters, and, with a small bundle of clothes, escaped. A cold wind was blowing, and many Chinese women and children, who left their clothing behind in the excitement, were frozen to death.

THE POLICE BOARD

Try An Officer and Acquit Him.

Investing the Money of the Police Pension Fund—Report on the City's Health.

Messrs. Potter, Stager and Waring were present at the meeting of the board of police commissioners last evening, and, in the absence of Mayor Emmick, Mr. Potter presided.

Before the regular board meeting the trustees of the police pension fund, consisting of the commissioners and Detective Spore and Patrolman Dan Sullivan, held a brief session.

Mr. Spore stated that the police pension fund had $1,050 to its credit, and that they desired to invest $1,000 of this in city bonds.

In accordance with this suggestion the secretary was instructed to purchase two $500 street intersection bonds.

The police board then came to order, and Health Officer Fisher stated that he had received a notice that there would be a joint meeting of the state and local boards of health at Columbus, January 28 and 29, to discuss various topics of importance to the maintenance of health in cities.

The board directed Dr. Fisher to attend this meeting and represent Toledo.

Dr. Fisher then made his regular report, and stated that during the present month there had been a largely increased mortality from pneumonia, bronchitis and pulmonary diseases. He also reported that at present there are only eight cases of diphtheria and eight cases of scarlet fever in the city.

The trial of Patrolman Charles Buchele was then taken up. At the last meeting charges were preferred against Buchele by Pat Bolan, who alleged that on Christmas night as he was about to enter Druid hall, where a dance was being held, the officer, without cause, struck him on the head and otherwise brutally assaulted him, afterwards locking him up at the police station on a charge of disturbance and resisting an officer. In police court he was discharged the next morning.

Bolan's statement was the same as his charges, and he said Buchele clubbed him eight times, cutting his head badly. A number of Bolan's companions testified before the board and made the same statement. All saying that Buchele struck Bolan without provocation.

Officer Buchele stated that Bolan had gotten into the dance once without showing a ticket, and afterwards went down stairs and came up again with about a dozen young fellows. Buchele knew Bolan for a disturber, and as the society holding the party did not want such fellows admitted, he refused to let him in, and politely requested him to go down stairs. Bolan then dared Buchele to put him down, and when the officer attempted to take hold of him, Bolan struck him in the face and grabbed him by the throat. In the fight Buchele was obliged to use his club. Another man threw Bolan down stairs, and when outside Buchele attempted to arrest Bolan, the latter attacked him again, and he was obliged to use his club.

A number of citizens who were at the dance corroborated Buchele's statement, saying that Bolan attacked Buchele and had him down. They also said that they did not want such fellows in the dance.

Several officers testified that Bolan generally resisted an officer when an attempt is made to arrest him, and they also stated that he had pleaded guilty to the charge of resisting an officer.

Chief O'Dwyer gave Buchele a good character as an officer, and stated that he knew these young fellows to be disturber.

On motion of Mr. Waring the charges were dismissed without discussion.

On application of W. R. Woodford, general manager of the W. & L. E. railway, Charles Scott, the station master of that road, was granted special police powers.

JUSTIFIABLE SHOOTING.

Nevada, Mo., Jan. 21.—The jury in the case of Thomas H. Hutlin, charged with murder in the first degree was concluded last evening. The jury brought in a verdict of not guilty.

Hutton shot and killed C. C. Deffenbaugh in this city on September 27 last. Deffenbaugh had pursued Hutton's wife with his attentions in such a way as to compromise her good name.

THE TROUBLESOME MINERS.

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 21.—Negotiations are pending for the sale of the three mines at Coal Creek, Briceville and Oliver Springs, where the recent uprising occurred, and where the militia of Tennessee is encamped. The state is trying to get out of the trouble by selling the mines to the Tennessee Coal and Iron Co. If this is done the convict question will be forever settled and there will be no war since free labor will work the mines.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

Washington, Jan. 21.—The National American Womans' Suffrage association continued in its session to-day. Lillie Devereux Blake, Helen P. Jenkins and other noted ladies spoke on subjects of interest to the association.

HE WAS A POOR SHOT.

And His Intended Victim Got Away With His Life.

Yankton, S. D., Jan. 21.—For sometime past bad feeling has existed between Archbald Van Allan, a Nebraska farmer, and E. N. Lathrop of this city.

Yesterday Van Allan walked into the postoffice where Lathrop was standing and fired four shoots at him, only one taking effect. That shattered Lathrop's hip and he is probably crippled for life.

Van Allan was arrested and locked up in the jail, whence he was later transferred to the county jail. Van Allan claims that Lathrop who formerly worked for him, had alienated his wife's affections and he threatened to kill Lathrop at sight.

Mrs. Van Allan, the cause of the trouble, left her husband sometime ago and came to Yankton, where she has continued to sustain improper relations with Lathrop who is a widower with six children. Van Allan will probably be admitted to bail.

SHUT OFF BY THE CROWN.

London, Jan 21.—The Frankfort Zeitung has been suspended by the authorities for publishing an immoral article on Maupassant, the French Author, now confined in an insane asylum.

ENTERTAINMENTS.

Charles Dickson in "Incog" To-Night.

Salvini's Coming Engagement in Romantic Drama—Kate Claxton in "The Two Orphans."

Charles Dickson, the clever comedian, will appear at Wheeler's to-night in Mrs. Pacheco's comedy, "Incog." The cast is made up of well known people, as follows:

Kate Armitage.....Miss Ellen Burg
Mrs. Richard Winters. Miss Alice Shepard
Miss Mollie Somers...Miss Clara Lipman
Isabelle Howard.....Miss Nellie Buckley
General Rufus Stanhope.....
Mr. Harry Davenport
Harry Winters.....Mr. Robert Edeson
Richard Winters.....Mr. Louis Mann
Ned Moreland.....Mr. Earle Brown
Dr. Siegfried Hartman.....
Mr. J. L. Ottomeyer
Matthew.....Mr. Louis Mason
Oliver.....Mr. Edgar Allen
Tom Stanhope.....Mr. Charles Dickson

Salvini.

Handsome Salvini is coming, and the announcement has been read with delight by theater goers. It will be one of the fashionable engagements of the year, doubtless, as his engagements are everywhere. Particular interest appears to be felt in his coming engagement here, and what augurs for its success is the demand for seats which this early has set in. Manager Wilkinson is now in Detroit arranging for the actor's engagement in that city. He will return here in a few days, when he will announce the repertoire, scale of prices and opening of the reserved seat sale. It will probably be the only opportunity Toledoans will have of seeing Salvini for some time, as after his engagements in this country Manager Wilkison takes him to Europe, where he will play in all the leading cities.

Salvini possesses the happy faculty of being able to play in English, French, German or Spanish, which languages he speaks as fluently as that of his mother country. Having played since a boy almost entirely in America, his English is as faultless as one to the manor born.

It has proven a wise idea on the part of Salvini and Manager Wilkison to first introduce the actor in romantic plays to which he is so admirably adapted. His engagement here is for two nights and the plays to be given will be selected from Don Caesar de Bazan, A Child of Naples, The Duke's Motto, Monte Christo or The Three Guardsmen. This will be decided in a day or two. There will be no Saturday matinee.

Kate Claxton.

What a stir in the world theatrical The Two Orphans made! Thousands of playgoers recall the early and famous performances of the enthralling drama. It possesses great interest, appeals to the sympathies of an audience in a remarkable degree, and withal, is one of the best constructed plays of its school. Many as have been the representations of The To Orphans, it is still potent to draw the public, and the revival of D'Ennery's drama by the eminent artist, Kate Claxton, which will be seen at Wheeler's next Monday, promises to be a pleasant and profitable event.

Kate Claxton's re-appearance as Louise, a character so intimately associated with the actress that no other personator can hope to make the impression that her pathetic, moving portrayal conveys. There is no straining after effect in her performance, and no endeavor to exalt its importance at the expense of other roles. It is legitimately effective, and therefore all the more worthy of commendation. The play is to be staged here with all magnificent scenery and effects direct from the New York production. The sale of seats opens Friday next.

RUNAWAY GIRL.

She Was Found in Toledo by Her Father.

A 16-year old girl named Lizzie Wagner, ran away from her home in Ottawa Lake, Mich., about two weeks ago and was supposed to have come to Toledo. Her father, M. C. Wagner, has been in the city several days searching for her with the aid of the police.

Yesterday upon inquiry at the Free Employment office, it was discovered that a girl answering the description had obtained a situation as domestic at 612 Madison street. The father called there and discovered his missing daughter. She did not want to return home, however, but was contented to stay where she is.

As she has a good place the father decided to allow her to remain where she is working.

FELL INTO THE FIRE.

Sulphur Springs, Tex., Jan. 21.—Mrs. Henry Pickens, living a few miles from this city, met with a horrible death last evening.

Her husband left her in her room perfectly well at noon yesterday while he went to attend to some farm duties.

When he returned he found his wife lying upon the hearth with her head in the fire, burned almost to a crisp. How she came to get into this horrible position is unknown. She was a bride of only a few weeks.

NORTHERN LUMBER.

Duluth, Minn., Jan. 21.—Statistics of the Duluth lumber district show that the cut of next season will be 350,000,000 feet. That of the past year was 275,000,000 feet. There is now on hand 128,000,000 feet. The industry has paid out in wages over $2,000,000, and the value of the product is estimated at $3,500,000. During the year $1,000,000 has gone into mill improvements at Duluth.

AIDING THE BELL BOY.

New York, Jan. 21.—Bell Boy Henry Cassin, who was convicted of stealing a bookmaker's money box from the safe of the Hotel Vendome, has secured a certificate of reasonable doubt staying proceedings pending an appeal from Justice Barrett. Many persons who have followed the case do not believe him guilty.

OREGON PACIFIC.

Corvall's, Ore., Jan. 21.—Zephin Job, of this city, bought in the Oregon Pacific railroad yesterday for $1,000,000. It is thought a compromise was made by the New York bondholders, and that Colonel T. F. Hogg will remain as president and Blair will be manager.

WANTED TO HANG GRAVES.

Denver, Col., Jan. 21.—A story which, if true, will throw some light on the verdict of the Graves case, leaked out yesterday. It is asserted that one of the jurors who found Graves guilty remarked before the trial that he would like to get on the jury in order to hang Graves.

FOSTORIA NOTES.

Fostoria, O., Jan. 21.—This city will build a Pythian castle.

DAMAGE CLAIMS

And Others Acted Upon by the Council Judiciary Committee.

The council committee on judiciary met last evening and acted upon a large number of small claims against the city. Most of these were for abatement of sewer and street improvement assessments, some of which were allowed, others referred for investigation and still others rejected.

The claim of the Mutual Life Insurance company for $953.32 damages to the Ames-Bonner building, on the corner of Lafayette and Ottawa streets, caused by the sinking of the sewer in Lafayette street, was presented. This claim was previously mentioned in the Bee, and the fact was developed that Ames, Bonner & Co. intend also presenting a claim for damages.

The claim was referred to a sub-committee for investigation.

THE SNOW HOUSE.

All yesterday it snowed and snowed,
And all last night until the road
Was whiter than the downy spread
Upon my cozy trundle-bed.
And once, before the daylight broke,
When from the land of dreams I woke,
I heard the poor wind whine and moan
Like Carlo when he's left alone.
Then high above the fleecy plain
The red sun sprang, and shook his mane,
And every window seemed like cake
The busy city bakers make.
So I got all my warm wraps out,
And buttoned tight my roundabout,
And found my shovel in the shed,
And shouted long and loud to Ned,
Until he came with answering cries,
All bundled to the very eyes;
Then down the orchard path we ran,
And Ned was rear and I was van.

Its whistle shrill the wind still blew,
And, oh, what drifts we floundered through;
The apples clinging to the bough
Were like big bursting puff balls now;
The brook was smothered; not a note
Came gurgling from its merry throat,
And only cherry chickadee
Sang welcome from the cherry-tree.
Beside the fence was piled the snow
As high as pony's back, I know;
And there we cleared a space before
A humpy drift, and made a door.
And hallway wide to light the gloom,
And then a great round sitting room,
Whose roof was set with shining things
That looked as bright as mamma's rings.
We had to creep along the hall,
But didn't have to here at all;
And snug within our house of snow
We played that we were Esquimaux.
—Clinton Scollard.

MRS. GRUNDY.

The Origin of a Much Used Popular Saying.

The interrogatory occurs in Morton's "Speed the Plough." Dame Ashfield, a farmer's wife, is jealous of a neighboring farmer named Grundy; she tells her spouse that Grundy got 5s a quarter more for his wheat than they did; that the sun seemed to shine on purpose for him; that his wife's butter is the best in the market. She then gives way to her fancies and says: "If our Nelly were to marry a great baronet, I wonder what Mrs. Grundy would say?"—whereupon Ashfield cries, "Why don't thee letten Mrs. Grundy alon? I do verily think when thee goest to t'other world the vurst question thee'll ax'll be if Mrs. Grundy's there!"—Family Herald.

ELECTRICITY TO AID FARMERS.

The inventive genius of man is a foe to conservatism. It invades every department of industry, overthrows existing methods and substitutes for them what the world admits to be improvements thereon. It would be incredulous, if it had not been demonstrated, that a subtile, invisible agent like electricity, could be bridled, harnessed and brought into successful competition with horses, mules, gas, water, steam and all other motive powers known to man. This it has done. Not many years ago, the street cars of our cities were drawn by horses and mules. When the cable car came into use, it seemed that the ultimatum was reached and street railway corporations made haste to replace the old fogy horse-car with the cable car. Following closely upon the investment of millions of dollars in cable car lines, came the application of electricity as a motive power, and owners of street car lines are abandoning the cable for the electric road.

No good reason can be given why electricity which is serving the city people so faithfully and so well, should not also be utilized to the comfort and profit of the country districts as well. Speaking upon this subject, an exchange says:

"The new system of freight transportation by electric roads is coming, and a practical illustration of the benefit to the farmer by this system will now, it is stated, be given in Maryland, where an electric railroad, 18 miles long, is being run through a first-class farming country that the steam railroads have not touched. This road will not only be used for passenger traffic, but will be equipped with freight cars that will have a capacity of five tons. These cars will be used for the special handling of all farm and mill products of the surrounding country. This new mode of rapid transportation, of industrial and agricultural commodities, promises to become a factor of the utmost importance in many districts which have heretofore had scant opportunities for the development of their resources, in consequence of the wretched condition of the roads in the winter months. Now, no matter how muddy the highways are, or how stormy the weather, the motor trucks upon which the farm wagons are wheeled, will always be ready to carry their loads to the nearest market, and to bring back their return load when required. Before long, the electric motor will bring into many a way-back, sleepy old farm, such a shaking up of the dry bones as will mean a very appreciable addition to the agricultural prosperity of the country."

The same class of ultra-conservative people who talked down and fought back the march of progress in all ages, will also ridicule the idea of electric cars on the country roads, because as they will say, it is "impracticable;" but just as the steamboat, the locomotive engine, the telegraph and thousands of other improvements have come in spite of the adverse predictions of those who are content with the present, the idle electricity which now gets into mischief and kills the farmers stock and burns his hay may be made to contribute to his happiness and prosperity.—St. Louis Journal.

FROM THE PATENT OFFICE.

Some months ago the American patent office had its one-hundredth birthday, and the last half of the century has witnessed wonderful strides in that direction, says Harper's Young People. In the first fifty years only 12,412 patents were issued, but last year there were 22,080.

The variety of patented articles is really wonderful, and American ingenuity seems to be in no danger of exhausting itself. Every year shows a larger number of inventions than the year before; and a few of the novelties patented in the last two years make quite amusing reading.

The approach of fly-time suggested an idea for a cow tail holder. A clamp like a clothespin catches the bushy end of the tail, and two cords with a snap attachment fasten the tail to the cow's leg, to a post, or to the milking stool. The same day that the Nebraska man got his patent for a cow-tail holder a man in Maine got one for the same purpose. The Maine man's tail-holder is of a single piece of wire coiled so as to connect the tail with the cow's leg. "A candle for killing insects" is a mixture of insect powder and tallow, or something else that will burn, moulded round a wick.

The wife of President Jackson is said to have once accounted to the British minister for a bad cold in the head by telling him that "the Ginral had kicked the kivvers off" the night before. But there seems to be no longer any excuse for people who "kick the kivvers off," as a clamp and a spring are now patented for attachment to the bedstead. By this simple device the covers are fastened down. The spring gives sufficient play, so that there is no danger of one getting choked in the act of turning over.

Any one might guess that a Kentucky man is entitled to the credit attached to the invention of "a combined ink-stand, pistol-case and burglar-alarm." No Kentucky editor's desk should be without it. To illustrate: An editor sits at his desk writing. A well known rough enters to demand a correction of the report about that row on Gold-digging Creek. The editor reaches forward, as if to dip his pen in the ink. He touches a spring in the top of the inkstand. A shallow drawer flies open toward him, and his hand drops upon the revolver. At the same time the alarm goes off, like one of those new devices to call people at 5 a. m. in country hotels. The mountaineer jumps back as if he heard the he-r-r of a rattler, and before he recovers he is covered. The editor is master of the situation. This inventor lives in Louisville.

A hand-car which moves along the tracks and mows weeds 15 feet away is one of the innovations in railroad machinery. It will do very well to go with the rotary snowplough, as an illustration of automatic intelligence.

THE BEAUTY OF APOLOGY.

Scarcely a day passes but each one of us is guilty, through carelessness, ignorance, or perhaps intention, of some unkind, hasty word or act against another. We misjudge another's word or deed, and, with angry motives, we try to right ourselves and assert our injured dignity. When our better nature is restored, we regret that we were not slow to anger. We are mortified that our own perceptions were not keen enough to see the word or deed from an impartial point of view, and often we feel true contrition that we have cherished unjust suspicions, and voiced our thoughts indignantly and harshly. There is an uneasy tugging of our conscience and a hurt spot in another's heart—two discords where all might have been harmonious.

Or we are so busy with our duties, so wrapped up in our efforts to get what we wish, that we hurry along rough-shod over any thing or person that checks our hasty pace. We are not unkind, but careless of another's share in the daily doings. We are self-assertive, and we imagine every one else equally able to maintain himself. We are surprised to find ourselves charged with indifference and selfishness, and to see another indignant at our self-centered course; or we are ignorant of the tender spot, the sensitive nerve, in our neighbor's more high-strung nature, and with idle or best-intentioned chat we press clumsily the place we should avoid.

All this is annoying, and we who conscientiously live to do good rather than evil, feel discouraged with our tactless selves, and often justly with those whose feelings are apparently "always on draught." But how many of us are willing to apologize? How many cheerfully use this, the first, means of righting wrongs? Just why should false pride succeed in convincing us that to assure another that we regret the wrong, and are minded not to repeat it, is humiliating?

The humiliating part of the matter is our own shortcoming in tact and thoughtfulness, not the fact that we say we see our blunder. The offense is *twofold—our part and our neighbor's—and it is not enough to be mentally resolved that the trouble shall not arise again. The neighbor should share this resolve, this mental apology. Not that apology is the whole of repentance, genuine turning from past acts, but it is the first chord that leads quickly, naturally back from discordant keys to past or higher harmonies.

To know the beauty of apology in its fulness, and it should be met in the same spirit of frankness. To receive an apology in a doubting, grudging, ungracious way is a disgrace. It is ill-bred, ignoble, unchristian. We are all liable to grievously offend at any moment, and when our brother says, "I was wrong; let me try again," let us not chill his frank impulses. Let us add our share to the beauty of his apology by a trusting, hearty God-speed.—Harper's Bazar.

DONNELLY'S DISBELIEFS.

No More Faith in Newspaper Men Than in Shakspeare.

Ignatius Donnelly doesn't seem to share that affection for newspaper men which is so prevalent in all quarters of the globe. There is something very soothing, however, in this lullaby with which he sings them to sleep:

The lying capacity of the newspapers of America is the most colossal exhibition of mendacity known to the world since the Almighty tumbled Lucifer over the battlements of heaven. It is stupendous; it is illimitable; it takes away the breath of simple virtue and bewilders honest truth into a paralysis.

It is a pity that Mr. Donnelly should have "a paralysis" at his time of life. We hope he will be spared some decades longer, for in some respects he is the most amusing personage on the planet.—New York Herald.

PADEREWSKI IN CHICAGO.

I went to a concert the other evening to hear a great pianist play. But it was not a four-legged, mahogany-incased, ordinary piano the young man played upon. The sounds I listened to came from the cavern of the morning where the north wind lays its fingers upon a thunder-harp of pines. They were like those that ripples make drawn softly over pebbly beaches. And when they had died away and flashed like a handful of feathers through the hushed house it was not music that enchanted our hearts—it was a great golden-jacketed bee settling sleepily into the heart of a blush rose; it was the chime of a vesper bell broken in many echoes between vine-clad hills; it was a something that had no form nor shape, yet floated midway between heaven and earth, light as the frailest flake of snow the storm ever cradled, substantial as the smoke of wind-driven fog, yet mighty as the shadow of approaching fate. Those clashing chords, those fainting diminuendos, those ringing crescendos and tremulous trills—shall I ever forget them? My dear, we may be poor, every one of us, as Job's turkey at its last faint gasp, when that young man comes back to Chicago, but we will go without gowns, bonbons and butter to hear him again.—Chicago Herald.

LEGENDS OF THE MAORIES.

The Maories are sometimes generally, and even exquisitely, poetical. One of them relates how the heavens and the earth were at the beginning of things united in marriage, and how the sky was torn away from the partner of her love by her own children, the storm winds. Every night she weeps over her lost husband, and her tears are the dew. Sometimes the stories are very quaintly and oddly imaginative, as where the tale is told of three brethren who took a canoe to fish, and went far, far out into the open sea, when one of them, who had prepared a magic hook, caught what was supposed to be a great fish at the bottom, and drawing it up to the surface, found that he had discovered New Zealand. That was how the land came into being, and the Maories point to two or three of the great mountain ranges as the stone canoes in which their giant ancestors came from some far-off country to people the land. The mixture of childish naivete and high imagination makes the collection actually fascinating. —Contemporary Review.

A WATTERSON STORY.

I was told a story of Watterson a few days ago which has something to do with the subject of interviews. The editor quarreled several years ago with one of his sons, and since that day has not spoken to him, nor has the son spoken to the father. There is, however, one exception to prove the rule. Watterson, Jr., while a reporter on the Louisville Commercial, was assigned to interview his father. He sent up his card and was admitted.

"You are, I believe," said Mr. Watterson, holding the card in his hand, "a reporter for the Commercial?"

"Yes, sir," answered the son.

And then Watterson pere answered the questions addressed to him. Both men were very formal, and at the close Mr. Watterson said, as he usually does after he is interviewed:

"Now, young man, be sure to quote me correctly."

The son bowed and left.—Buffalo Courier.

For any case of nervousness, sleeplessness, weak stomach, indigestion, dyspepsia, try Carter's Little Nerve Pills. Relief is sure. The only nerve medicine for the price in the market.

CURES FOR SLEEPLESSNESS.

Cures for insomnia are very numerous, and before any man could try them all he would be asleep forever. A way for putting young children to sleep is of Spanish origin. It requires that the back from the neck to the waist be gently rubbed.

There is much in the Chinese theory that wakefulness will be dispelled when one rids the mind of every thought whatsoever.

A musician during a severe illness made his wife play the scale up and down on a small organ. Often after he was asleep he would start slightly and then sing what had put him to sleep.

Horace, in his satires, recommends swimming the Tiber three times! Sir Thomas Browne was accustomed to repeat some verses of a certain hymn. Franklin took an air bath, Sir John St. Clair counted, while Sir John Rennie, when engaged upon any public works, never went to sleep until his head had been combed and gently rubbed by a soft hand. Gentle exercise in the open air, temperance and plain, wholesome food are the best aids to sleep.—Minneapolis Tribune.

Pills often leave a person constipated. Simmons Liver Regulator never does.

LARGE AUSTRALIAN STATIONS.

"Many of the Australian stations are of magnificent proportions. 'Old Jimmy Tyson,' as he is familiarly known, who is reputed to be the wealthiest man in Australia, and worth at least two million pounds, pastures 70,000 head of cattle upon a single one of his properties, and owns stations, both in New South Wales and Queensland, each of which is larger than Bavaria. Mr. Alison of New South Wales, in his two adjoining stations of Mergular and Canonbar, holds an area greater than Belgium, and in the same colony Mr. William Halliday's 'Brookong' station (one of the finest in Australia) comprises 220,000 acres and carries 250,000 sheep. Figures like the above might be quoted indefinitely, but it is enough to say that at present the pastoral lands of Australia include an area somewhat in excess of that of the New England states, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, the Virginias, Kentucky and Tennessee combined."—Scribner's Monthly.

Dyspepsia in all its forms not only relieved but cured by Simmons Liver Regulator.

"Having contracted a severe bronchial trouble while in the White Mountains, I have since been subject to frequent attacks. I can truly say that I have experienced more prompt, pleasant and enduring relief from the use of DAY'S BRONCHIAL CURE than any other, and most cordially recommend it to all suffering from similar affection."

ANCIENT CARTOGRAPHERS.

Ptolemy, like all great reformers, stood upon the shoulders of the men who had preceded him, for before a map like his could be produced much preliminary work had been accomplished. Parmenides of Elea (460 B. C.) had demonstrated that our earth was a globe, and Eratosthenes (276-196 B. C.) had approximately determined its size. Hipparchus (190-120) the greatest astronomer of antiquity, the discoverer of the precession of the equinoxes, and the author of a catalogue of stars, had transferred to our earth the auxiliary lines drawn by him across the heavens. He had taught cartographers to lay down places according to their latitude and longitude and how to project a sphere upon a plane. It is to him we are indebted for the stereographic and orthographic projections of the sphere. Ptolemy himself invented the tangential conical projection.—Goldthwaite's Geographical Magazine.

NOSES TO SUIT.

Is your nose shaped to suit you? If it isn't you can have one to please your most fastidious fancy. What kind do you want? A straight nose denoting refinement and artistic tendencies, or a rounder one, revealing a literary taste, or a scientific nose or a melancholy nose of the poetic type? You can cultivate any kind of a nose you want. This may be done by means of a mold which is designed to be worn at nights, and its mission is accomplished by gradually pressing the flesh of the nose into any desired shape. The molds come high, but who would not pay the price for an ideal nose?—Philadelphia Record.

THE WAY TO GO.

You have seen California frequently mentioned in newspapers and magazines. Perhaps a friend has been there and writes enthusiastic letters back home about the climate and the fruits. It makes you anxious to see the country for yourself.

The time to go is in the fall and winter. Then work here is least pressing and California climate is most pleasing. The way to go is via Santa Fe route, on one of that line's popular, personally-conducted parties, leaving Chicago every Saturday evening and leaving Kansas City every Sunday morning.

Special agents and porters in attendance. Pullman tourist sleepers are used, furnished with bedding, mattresses, toilet articles, etc. Second-class tickets honored. Write to Geo. E. Gilman, Michigan Passenger Agent Santa Fe route, for folder describing these excursions.

Taylor's flour is used by the Irish because it is the whitest flour in the market.

RIGHTS OF AUDIENCES.

Why is it that an audience, or a small part of an audience, even the ushers and other employes of a theater alone, are not only allowed but encouraged to interrput a performance with indiscriminate applause, while any expression of disapproval is regarded as ground for expulsion? A tribunal in France has just decided, with obvious propriety, that there is no reason for this, but that a person in the audince has the same right to hiss as to applaud, provided the hissing be not part of a hostle conspiracy and that it do not disturb or interrupt the performance.—Philadelphia Times.

Taylor's flour is used by the Americans because it is the best flour in the market.

When the atmosphere contains 85 per cent. of moisture it is saturated. The amount of humidity is calculated on the 85 per cent. scale, so that when we are told that there is 75 per cent. of humidity it does not mean that the atmosphere is only 10 points away from saturated, but that it contains 75 per cent. of the 85 per cent. of the humidity necessary to saturate it.

The manufacture of basic steel has just been established in Sweden, the first plant having recently been erected in connection with the Domnvarfvets Iron works. There are three 30-ton open hearth furnaces, and the local phosphoric iron ores, which have hitherto been used only to a limited extent, will be utilized. The establishment of this plant is of considerable importance to the Swedish iron industry, as there are large deposits of high phosphorous ores in Sweden, which have hitherto been of little value.

Taylor's flour is used by the Germans because it is the cheapest flour in the market.

The emperor of Germany is regarded as something of a sport though no doubt he would spurn the imputation. It is said he has rather a dislike for racing, because he regards it as giving encouragement to gambling, but he is indirectly, the largest owner of race horses in Germany, as the Graditz stud belongs to the crown, and the horses trained there have won more than those of any other owner, the Graditz stud having been credited with nearly £12,500, while the only other owners who have more than £4,000 are Herr May, Herr Simon, Prince Furstenberg and Baron von Oertzen.

The largest library in the world is that at Paris, which contains upwards of 2,000,000 printed books and 160,000 manuscripts. Between the Imperial library at St. Petersburg and the British museum there is not much difference. In the British museum there are about 1,500,000 volumes. The Royal library of Munich has now something over 900,000, but this includes many pamphlets; the Royal library at Berlin contains 800,000 volumes; the library at Copenhagen, 510,000; the the library at Dresden, 500,000; the University library at Gottingen, Germany, 600,000. The Royal library at Vienna has 400,000 volumes, and the University library at in the same city 370,000 volumes; at Buda-Pesth, the university library has 300,000 books, the corresponding library at Cracow nearly the same number, and at Prague 205,000.

Taylor's flour is more uniform than any flour in the market.

Some time ago the figurehead of a ship was picked up near a little island off the coast of western Australia, which, from the course it was pursuing when found, had evidently only just arrived there. It was identified as belonging to a vessel that had been burned at sea near Cape Horn, at a point just 6,000 miles away, two years and a half before. The mean rate at which the figurehead had traveled was, therefore, about six miles and a half a day.

Do You Know What We Are Doing at Our One-Third-Off Sale?

We are offering to the citizens of Toledo an opportunity that never comes more than once a year and when it does come you want to grapple it to your memory with bands of steel. Do not forget it. THIS IS WHAT WE ARE DOING!

WE ARE SELLING

MEN'S AND BOYS' OVERCOATS ONE-THIRD OFF!
MENS' AND BOYS' SUITS ONE-THIRD OFF!
MEN'S AND BOYS' HATS AND CAPS ONE-THIRD OFF!
MEN'S AND BOYS' UNDERWEAR ONE-THIRD OFF!

You all know that we handle the best made clothing that's made in America and America beats the world! And every one knows that we sell at regular prices so low as not only to meet but to distance the keenest competition.

Our Regular Prices are Always the Lowest, but Now there is One-Third Off our Regular Prices!

So that you can readily understand the unparalleled values we are now giving—are below zero! Profit or loss we no longer have to consider. The immense stock of merchandise contained in our building WE OWN, IT IS OURS, IT IS ALL PAID FOR, WE OWE NOBODY!

And we can do just as we please with it—and just now it is our pleasure to discharge some of the obligations we are under to the people of Toledo—by giving back to them in this great sacrifice sale, a part of the wealth and profit they have so kindly bestowed upon us.

THIS IS MOCKETT'S METHODS

We do not believe in burying our goods away from one season to another only to resurrect them again and try to pass them off upon the people as new goods—that isn't our style—and since it is too late to sell the stock we have left on our hands and realize any profit on same—we deem it better to sell if at a sacrifice.
